BEAUHARNOIS REPORT RUSHED FOR DEBATE BY M.P.'S

Balance of Power Denounced By MacDonald

New Co-operation of Nations Is Urged By Premier of Britain

Britain Opposed to Balance of Power Arrangements and Supports Disarmament, MacDonald Tells German Newspaper Reporters in Berlin

Canadian Press

Berlin, July 28—Great Britain is diametrically opposed to the balance of power theory because it is incompatible with disarmament, says Premier MacDonald to the people of Germany.

So long as the nations try to maintain national security on the basis of balance of power they will need big armaments, he told a delegation of German newspaper men, but Great Britain believed in establishing security by international co-operation, policy in violent contradiction to that of the balance of power.

As for economic co-operation, he said experience continued to prove how necessary it was that the resources of all the countries should be used in the interests of international stability. High tariff walls, he asserted, would lead to universal bankruptcy.

BANK IS STRONG

The Prime Minister laughed at the suggestion that withdrawals of gold from the Bank of England might worry him.

"The old saying 'Sound as the Bank of England, is as true to-day'," said he, "as it ever was. I am not worried a bit."

Germany's economic difficulties were largely temporary, Mr. MacDonald said, and to a great extent were psychological.

The country's industrial position was fundamentally sound, he said, and as soon as the proper psychological foundation could be laid the nation might expect to overcome the present acute distress.

He and Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, British Foreign Secretary, received the press immediately after an informal call on President von Hindemburg, whom they found in excellent health.

NO NEW CREDITS

At the beginning of the interview with the correspondents Mr. MacDonald discouraged any tendency to expect concrete results in the way of new credits from this visit, but he emphasized the immense importance of the psychological factor in the German crisis.

A proposal for a five-year "political moratorium" had not been discussed in the conferences here, he said, adding that he believed any moratorium likely to relieve financial or political tension would be a good thing if the practical difficulties were not insurmountable.

AID OF OTHER NATIONS

Germany attacked the task of solving her financial crisis with new heart and new energy to-day as a result of Premier MacDonald's declaration at a dinner in his honor yesterday evening, that if she did not give way to despair "other nations will help her and not suffer you to go under."

Chancellor Bruening's mouthpiece, the newspaper Germania, declared the evidence of British readiness to help the distressed fatherland ranked with President Hoover's plan leading to a year's respite from reparations.

MANITOBA MAN HELD ON CHARGE OF KILLING WIFE

Dauphin, Man., July 28.—Andrew Bodz, Pine River farmer, was in jail here to-day with a murder charge against him. Provincial police, who hunted for Bodz twenty-four hours before capturing him late yesterday at Ukraina, a neighboring village, were holding him following the death of his wife, who was beaten to death in their home at Pine River Sunday.

A coroner's jury investigating the death of Mrs. Bodz, returned a verdict yesterday which said, "evidence presented tends to cast suspicion on Andrew Bodz." The husband was released from penitentiary last month on ticket-of-leave, after serving two years for incest.

Graf Meets Russian Ship In Arctic Bay

Airship Alights on Water and Exchanges Mail With Soviet Icebreaker Maligin

Success of Experiment of Arctic Expeditions Reported By Radio By Eckener

Friedrichshafen, Germany, July 28—Dr. Hugo Eckener, commanding the Graf Zeppelin on its Arctic cruise, to-day notified the Zeppelin works by radio the big dirigible had alighted briefly on the bay of Hooker Island, Franz Josef Land.

For thirteen minutes it rested on the still water of the bay near the Russian icebreaker Maligin, which sailed into the north with a party of tourists and anchored off the island for the rendezvous.

Floating ice in the Arctic bay made it inadvisable for the Graf to remain on the water longer than it did.

Atmospheric disturbances made radio reception difficult, but it was said the landing took place early yesterday evening and the Maligin exchanged mail.

FRENCH LOAN TO BRITAIN IS NOW PROPOSED

$100,000,000 Mentioned as Sum to Support Exchange Value of Pound Sterling

Canadian Press

Paris, July 28. — Negotiations between officials of the Bank of France and the Bank of England with a view to extension of a sizeable loan to the British institution were temporarily suspended to-day to allow Sir Robert Kindersley to confer with his colleagues in London.

Sir Robert and Clement Moret, governor of the Bank of France, since Saturday have been discussing the possibilities of the Bank of France opening rediscount credits amounting to about $100,000,000 with the Bank of England to support the pound sterling.

In financial circles it was pointed out the proposed assistance of France to Great Britain was equally important for France, because she would suffer deeply from financial troubles in Britain, while she had only a little invested in Germany.

Other commentators said flatly that France had decided to lend money to Great Britain instead of Germany.

Two-score Greek Soldiers Killed

Athens, Greece, July 28.—Forty-seven Greek soldiers were killed by a fall of earth during the construction of defensive works on the Serbo-Albanian frontier, according to news received here from Albania.

WHEN CROWDS THRONGED BERLIN BANKS

Dramatic scenes in the streets of Berlin accompanied the threatened collapse of Germany's financial structure, which now is steadier as a result of the conferences in Paris and London, to which result also the present visit of Premier MacDonald and Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson in Berlin is a contributing factor. The picture above, the first of its sort received in Victoria was taken while throngs of anxious depositors jammed the sidewalks outside the Stadtische Sparkasse after that banking house, one of the most important in the German capital, had been declared insolvent. Helmeted police guarded the doors against a threatened onrush of the crowds.

New Governor Will Take Over Office Here On Saturday

Hon. J. W. Fordham Johnson Will Be Installed Here This Week By E. J. Lemaire

His Honor Expresses Faith in Future of Country in First Public Statement

Hon. J. W. Fordham Johnson, British Columbia's Lieutenant-Governor designate, will take the oath of office at the Parliament Buildings on Saturday, administered by E. J. Lemaire, Clerk of the Privy Council of Canada. His Honor is in the city in readiness for the ceremony which will mark the official taking over of the office, having arrived yesterday afternoon with Mrs. Johnson, the new chatelaine at Government House, from Qualicum Beach, where they have a summer home.

LEMAIRE HERE FRIDAY

Armed with the Royal Commission, Mr. Lemaire is due to arrive here from Ottawa on Friday morning and he is expected to administer the oath in person the following day, after which the new Lieutenant-Governor and his wife will take up residence at Government House.

Mr. Lemaire, the clerk to the Privy Council, was in Victoria about four months ago, when he represented Premier Bennett in welcoming to Canada on April 16, the King and Queen of Siam.

PROUD OF HONOR

Making his first public pronouncement since being appointed to the first office of the province, Hon. Mr. Fordham Johnson, subsequent to his arrival in the city from Qualicum Beach, issued the following statement:

"A loyal subject of our King and empire, I am naturally very proud of the high honor conferred on me. Since I have received notice of my appointment, I have been greatly gratified and strengthened by the warm wishes of the great number of people who have sent me congratulatory messages.

"If a constitutional devotion to duty can assist, or in any way improve our beloved province, my fellow citizens can rest assured that no effort will be spared by me to give help towards that end. My long residence in British Columbia has made me a fanatic on the subject of its beauties and its wonderful opportunities. For many years I have regarded it as the land of promise.

RETURN OF PROSPERITY

"Despite the present world-wide depression in business, I am of the opinion that in this country the bottom of it has been reached, and I hope and believe that during my term of office we shall see a return of prosperity greater than any we have yet known.

"I have had forty-seven years of experience in business and, speaking with that experience in mind, I feel safe in predicting that in a short while we shall see a gradual but safe resumption of better times, accompanied by a marked improvement in the distressing and difficult problem of unemployment, a development devoutly to be wished for.

"I have passed through a crisis, 1893-4, just as serious as the present one. My experience has taught me that once a spirit of confidence in the future takes hold of the people, the return of prosperity cannot long be delayed."

HON. J. W. FORDHAM JOHNSON

VISITED RESIDENCE

Early this morning the Lieutenant-Governor designate and Mrs. Johnson left the Empress Hotel, where they are registered, in their private car for Government House, where they were met by A. M. D. Fairbairn, secretary to the Governor.

After a short stay at the official residence on Rockland Avenue they returned to the hotel and left within a few minutes to pay other calls in the city. At 1:45 o'clock this afternoon the new Governor left by the regular boat for Vancouver, planning to return by Saturday when he will assume office and take up his residence with Mrs. Johnson at Government House.

Aged Clergyman Defies Workmen

Canadian Press

Toronto, July 28.—Rev. Robert Brown, seventy-nine-year-old retired clergyman arrested on a charge of intimidation after he had attacked two detectives and held a gang of workmen at bay for more than an hour with a pitchfork when they proceeded to dig a sewer across his property, was remanded to the psychiatric hospital until August 1 when he appeared in police court to-day.

Mr. Brown was arrested on complaints of the foreman of a gang of workmen, who told police the aged pastor would not permit his men to continue the city sewer across his property.

Two detectives were dispatched to Mr. Brown's home and one of them got a tongue of the fork thrust into the flesh of his thigh.

PROBLEM OF TRANSIENTS HERE LIGHT

Registrations Show Practically No Outsiders Asking Relief in Municipalities

City Registers Some Transients; Recording Proceeding Rapidly

When two hours of registration for relief under the new government scheme had been completed in Victoria this morning, it was apparent that the city would not have a particularly large problem as far as transients are concerned, although the relief office was swamped with application for registration of resident unemployed.

Up to noon about forty workless of the resident type had obtained certificates at the relief office on Langley Street, while upwards of a dozen transients had been recorded at the Employment Bureau office, which is handling this end of the wor. Officials do not anticipate a large registration of transients.

Unemployed women are also being registered at the Employment Bureau office.

Saanich, which has been registering for two days had recorded 155 names up to noon to-day, only one of these being classed as a transient.

In Oak Bay municipality the unemployment problem is a light one. Since yesterday morning only nine men had registered. There are about ten now employed on municipal relief, and these will register shortly, it is expected. The registration in Oak Bay will not go higher than thirty or forty, officials think.

G. H. Pullen is acting as registrar in Esquimalt, and announced nearly thirty had been recorded up to noon from the time the registration opened this morning. None of these were classed as transients.

BENNETT TO BE BANQUET GUEST

Ottawa, July 28.—Premier Bennett will be a guest this evening when Conservative members of the Commons and senators tender a private banquet in his honor on the anniversary of the general election of 1930.

At a conservative caucus which broke up early this afternoon Premier Bennett was accorded felicitations and cheers by his followers. A general discussion took place at the caucus, which may be the last of the present session.

Expected St. Lawrence Recommendations Will Be Before Commons To-night

Committee Sits, With Only Brief Luncheon Recess, in Order to Complete Its Report and Present It to Commons Before To-day's Sitting Ends; Last-minute Changes Slightly Delay Document

Ottawa, July 28.—The Beauharnois inquiry committee of the Commons, considering its report, adjourned early this afternoon for lunch. A further meeting of the committee was held this afternoon in the expectation of tabling the report in the Commons during the sitting this evening.

When the House adjourned at 6 p.m. it was reported the committee was making some last-minute changes in the report and that it would be tabled between 8 and 9 p.m.

Condemnation of three prominent men connected with the enterprise may be made in the report.

QUEBEC CONFERENCE

Hon. Honore Mercier, Minister of Lands and Foresta of Quebec, arrived in the capital early this afternoon to confer with the government on possible legislation to be introduced this session regarding the Beauharnois enterprise.

An earlier dispatch said it was expected legislation involving government control over the Beauharnois project would be discussed at the conference with the Quebec minister. Telegrams were exchanged late yesterday evening between Premier Bennett, Hon. W. A. Gordon, chairman of the Beauharnois inquiry committee of Commons, and the Quebec Premier.

The investigating committee met in camera yesterday evening and considered its report.

VICTORIA CHILD IS BADLY HURT

Canadian Press

Vancouver, July 28.—Millie Wilkinson, of 911 Caledonia Avenue, Victoria, visiting relatives in Burnaby, was seriously injured late yesterday afternoon when she fell beneath a B.C. Motor Transportation Company's bus at the corner of Windermere and Hastings Streets, police report.

She fell beneath the rear wheel, receiving a fracture of the left arm and a compound fracture of the left leg. She was taken to a hospital, where to-day her condition was reported to be fair.

The little girl is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wilkinson of Caledonia Avenue, and was spending a holiday in Burnaby with her mother.

Entrance Exams Pass Lists Show Willows Student Tops Island

Frank Ormond Morris, With Total of 513, Ranks Third Among Winners of Governor-General's Medals in British Columbia; Georgette Albertine Lennartz, Sidney School, Takes Honors for District No. 2; Successful Candidates in Island Centres Announced

Frank Ormond Morris, young student of the Willows School, led candidates of the Island who sat for the entrance examinations of the Department of Education in June and won the Governor-General's bronze medal for the pupil topping District No. 1, it was revealed in the pass lists released by the department yesterday evening. He was one of two Island students who secured medals, Georgette Albertine Lennartz of Sidney School being the other.

The marks of the Willows student were third highest among the medal winners in the province. He secured 513 against 527 made by Winnifred Odetta Hicks of Agassis School, who made the highest aggregate in British Columbia.

In releasing the results the department announced that under the regulations now in force, pupils attending an elementary school in a district where there is a high school or a superior school in operation, may be promoted on the recommendation of a committee consisting of the principal of the elementary school, the principal of the high or superior school and the provincial inspector of schools.

The number which went into the higher class by this method amounted to 4,194 this year. Of the 2,850 pupils who wrote the department's examinations 1,278 were successful.

In Nanaimo, where a junior high school is in operation, virtually all promotions were made by recommendation.

M'GAVIN GETS CHINESE CLUB PLAN THROUGH

Mrs. North Supports Commissioner's Idea Regarding Gambling

On his third attempt Commissioner Andrew McGavin succeeded at yesterday afternoon's police commission meeting in gaining support for a motion to allow chartered clubs in Chinatown. Commissioner Mrs. Dorethy North, who on two previous occasions has not supported Commissioner McGavin, seconded his resolution yesterday and it passed.

The McGavin motion couples with it instructions to Chief Heatley "to raid and close up immediately all places where gambling is carried on behind barred doors."

Mayor Anscomb voted in the negative.

Commissioner McGavin's idea, as he has explained it at previous commission meetings, is to "put the Chinese on an equal footing with white men as far as gambling is concerned." Barred doors protecting alleged gambling joints in Chinatown will draw police attention and subsequent raids, he maintains.

There was no discussion on the point yesterday, the motion being read from the minutes and passed. The number of clubs which will be allowed to operate was left to the discretion of the chief.

Word Awaited Of Two Planes Over Atlantic

No Direct News of Boardman and Pangborn Machines Which Left New York

Canadian Press

New York, July 28.—Hours after Russell Boardman and John Polando had taken off for Istanbul, Turkey, to-day, officials at the Floyd Bennett Field were anxiously awaiting news of them, because when last seen they were going in the wrong direction.

There was a west wind blowing and so the fliers made to take off into the west. The heavily loaded plane rose sluggishly and skimmed out over the bay. It was believed that after gaining sufficient altitude the fliers would turn and pass again over the field, heading up the coast for Newfoundland, but the plane continued lumbering westward until it faded from sight.

It was generally supposed it had swung in a wide circle and so was invisible from the field as it struck its course for the east, but nevertheless word was awaited with considerable anxiety.

100 MILES AN HOUR

New York, July 28.—Frank Dorbandt, Alaska pilot, and friend of Hugh Herndon, who flew an accompanying plane for thirty-five miles, said on his return that Herndon and Pangborn were riding at 100 miles an hour at an altitude of 400 feet. He said Herndon had taken out his charts to map his route at that point.

START OF TWO PLANES

Floyd Bennett Airport, New York, July 28.—Two powerful monoplanes took off within eighteen minutes of each other on non-stop transatlantic flight attempts early this morning.

The Bellanca monoplane Cape Cod, manned by Russell Boardman of Boston and John Polando of Lynn, Mass., rolled down the 4,100-foot runway at exactly 5 a.m., eastern standard time, and skimmed away at an altitude of not more than 60 feet until it was lost to sight. It rose toward the west as the wind was coming from that direction.

They hoped to reach Istanbul, Turkey, about 5,500 miles away.

The second plane to take off was that of Hugh Herndon Jr., former Princeton student, and Clyde Pangborn, veteran circus flier. They rolled away at 5.18 a.m., eastern standard time, on an intended flight around the world with Moscow, 5,400 miles away, as their first objective.

WEATHER FAVORABLE

Weather conditions across the entire Atlantic were described as ideal for the flights by Dr. James S. Kimball, government meteorologist and unofficial starter.

Field officials feared the Boardman-Polando plane might meet with difficulties because of its great weight. It carried 718 gallons of gasoline and 25 gallons of oil, sufficient fuel to keep it going 7,000 miles if necessary, its motor being a 300-horsepower Wright.

SCIENTISTS STUDYING THEORY OF GERM TRANSFORMATION

Canadian Press

Chicago, July 28.—A retiring professor of bacteriology who has invaded germland and exposed its myriads of unseen armies to the scrutiny of science was lost today in a maelstrom of praise and inquiries from the scientific world.

Embarrassed by the limelight into which announcement of his theory of germ transformation had suddenly thrust him, Dr. Arthur Isaac Kendall of the Northwestern University steadfastly refused to answer questions, but busied himself with perfection of the announced discovery to an eager world of science in a university two weeks hence.

A few additional facts were volunteered, however, by Dr. Irving S. Cutter, dean of the Northwestern School of Medicine, who has co-operated closely with Dr. Kendall throughout the years of experiments.

With medium K—food for germs composed essentially of the small intestines of man, the pig, dog or rabbit—Dr. Kendall has caused the germs to grow manifold from the invisible to the visible stages, and he can also send them back in the unseen, according to Dr. Cutter.

This simple process has been described by scientists who heard the announcement as the greatest medical discovery since Louis Pasteur because, they said, it will place within the reach of laboratory workers elusive baccilli and make possible the discovery of the causes of many maladies, among them influenza, common colds, rheumatic fever, sleeping sickness and even possibly cancer.

COMMONS COMMITTEE PLANS INCREASE IN FARM EXPORTS

Canadian Press

Ottawa, July 28.—Its work interrupted by a Conservative Party caucus, the Commons committee on agriculture this forenoon traversed considerable of its report until to-morrow. A number of sections were taken up and approved, but the one dealing with wheat threatened to provoke discussion. In view of that, the chairman, Mark C. Senn, Conservative, Haldimand, Ont., held over further examination of the report.

The committee was charged with the task of investigating methods of handling and marketing agricultural products of all kinds, and those to which it devoted special attention were eggs, pork and pork products, beef and beef cattle and exportable wheat.

GRADING OF EGGS

With regard to the first the committee endorsed the principle of grading eggs and poultry as being in the interest of all concerned. It will recommend every effort be made to insure the least possible difficulty in the handling, grading and marketing of poultry products, and to guarantee the greatest possible return to the producers.

CATTLE TRADE

An export trade of increasing volume and value in beef cattle is open to Canada, the committee believes, but this is dependent on the careful breeding, feeding, selecting and conditioning of Canadian cattle, adequate shipping space, reasonable transportation rates and continuous volume all the year round.

Improvement in the present system of hog grading will be recommended.

The committee's report will be presented to the Commons to-morrow afternoon.

PENSIONS BILL IS VOTED BY THE COMMONS

House Speeds Up and Completes Consideration of National Health Appropriations

Ottawa, July 28.—Canada's annual pension bill of $5,500,000 for returned soldiers was passed by the Commons yesterday evening.

A. W. Neill, Independent, Comox-Alberni, said the Supreme Court had been engaged for some months interpreting the Pensions Act to determine the right of an applicant to appeal on assessment of pensions.

The minister said he would inquire and endeavor to expedite the judgment.

Replying to Alfred Speakman, U.F.A., Red Deer, Dr. MacLaren said approximately 20,000 cases were pending before the board of pensions commissioners.

The House breezed through the other items of the Pensions Department and those for the National Health branch. The total was $13,151,209. Estimates for salaries for the department totaling $229,610 and contingencies of $87,000 were carried, clearing up this department's estimates.

WORLD Y.M.C.A. MEETS IN EAST

1,400 Delegates at Big Gathering in Toronto; Unity Keynote

Canadian Press

Toronto, July 28.—The world conference of Young Men's Christian Associations get under way here to-day with a study of boys' work and the Y.M.C.A. programme. Meeting in two groups, the young men and boys attending the conference began to thresh out their problems in three languages—French, German and English—with an interpreter to assist those who do not understand one of these.

Yesterday evening the conference was opened by Dr. John R. Mott of New York, president of the World's Alliance, who called on the 1,400 delegates to make unity the keynote of their work in forty-six nations. The conference was particularly timely declared Dr. Mott, in view of the dangerous misunderstandings between nations and races which threatened the world to-day.

Two Young Men Are Caught By Squad of Police

Marcus Phipps and Companion Make Arrests Near Port Coquitlam

Provincial Game Warden Fired at Two as They Passed In Car

Canadian Press

Vancouver, July 28—Surrounded by a posse of provincial police officers in thick bush near Port Coquitlam, two young men, who said they were Joseph Smith of Toronto and "Chuck" Elder of Windsor, Ont., were captured about 6 o'clock this morning and lodged in the provincial jail at Port Coquitlam.

Thomas Osborne of Port Haney was awakened by the noise of a pane of glass in the door of his store being broken. The burglars fled, and two men in a large sedan were later reported heading east at high speed along the Pitt River road.

Provincial Game Warden Frank Urquhart, Port Coquitlam, waylaid the car at the Pitt River bridge. Instead of stopping, the occupants attempted to run him down and the officer fired at them.

AUTO FOUND

The automobile was found abandoned on a blind road off the main highway. There were indentations on the car from bullets fired by Urquhart. The license number was 93-720, and it was found the car had been stolen from Sidney M. Rosenberg, Vancouver.

All available provincial police officers, to the number of fifteen, under command of Sub-inspector John Shirras, were mustered at 4.30 a.m. in Vancouver and speeded to Port Coquitlam, where the suspects had fled to the bush.

Smith and Elder were discovered running from the woods by Provincial Detective Carl Ledoux and Marcus Phipps. The latter fired two shots in the air and the fugitives surrendered. They were unarmed.

FERGUSON TO TAKE HOLIDAY

Canadian High Commissioner Reviews Work Before Sailing From England

By Thomas T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent

London, July 28.—"It has been a busy but very interesting time in London so far," Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner to Great Britain, told the Canadian Press to-day on the eve of his departure with Mrs. Ferguson for a holiday in Canada, the first since he assumed his London post, five months ago.

"I came here knowing nothing about the office," Mr. Ferguson confessed, "having only a general idea of its duties. If I have only induced the people of England to take a livelier interest in the Dominion I feel I have already accomplished something. The task of making contacts with public men and those who have influence, although perhaps not well known at large, takes a good deal of time. It is very essential even though it may not show immediate results.

Speaking of the conference of wheat exporting nations of the world, whose representatives met at Canada House under Mr. Ferguson's chairmanship last May, Mr. Ferguson said he considered the results even thus far highly valuable. The chief achievement was the setting up of a permanent clearing house for wheat information and Mr. Ferguson added that in the course of time people would realize an international contact had been established through the setting up of this central body representative of the wheat exporting nations.

"It is not unfair to say the feeling of co-operation thus created assisted the United States representatives to reach the recommendation made to the federal farm board that the American surplus stock should be placed in the world market on a fixed basis," Mr. Ferguson said.

So far as the present feeling of England toward Canada was concerned, Mr. Ferguson said that on every hand he had found a most sympathetic attitude toward the Dominion. Perhaps, indeed, more interest was being displayed in Canada by the English people to-day than at any previous period, he said. Canada's difficulties over the admission of immigrants during the critical period through which she is passing appreciated here and though some irritation may have existed earlier, this has been largely dissolved and there is a wider understanding of Canada's viewpoint, he thought.

Mr. Ferguson stated he hoped to discuss with the Dominion Government schemes for increasing the scope and activity of the establishment at Canada House. "If the government approves I would also like, during my stay, to go through to the Pacific Coast and see conditions for myself," he said.

"And I am also looking forward to ten days' fishing," Mr. Ferguson concluded with a smile.

COMMISSION ON CRIME URGED FOR DOMINION

Woodsworth Tells Commons of Inequalities in Prisons of Canada

Canadian Press

Ottawa, July 28.—Establishment of a special commission to study the causes of crime and the treatment of criminals was advocated in the Commons yesterday evening by James S. Woodsworth, Labor, Winnipeg North Centre. Justice was not being administered impartially in Canada, he charged. There seemed to be one law for "big criminals" and another for "little criminals."

The Winnipeg Labor member introduced this subject when Premier Bennett moved the House into committee of supply after the dinner recess.

Mr. Woodsworth, referring to "savage sentences," instanced one case where a bank robber had been sent to jail for eighteen years and ordered to receive fifteen lashes. "The worst yet" was the case of a youth, two months over sixteen, who had been sentenced to five years and twenty lashes. Although clemency was shown and the lashes remitted, Mr. Woodsworth did not believe "any magistrate should have the power to impose a sentence of that severity." The boy, he contended, should have been tried by a juvenile court.

Turning to the incarceration of certain Toronto mining brokers, Mr. Woodsworth said they were being held at the Collins Bay farm, adjacent to Kingston, Ont. That farm, he contended, was intended for juvenile delinquents and preferred prisoners, "but I do not believe the preferred people were to be big criminals such as brokers."

It had been said the Collins Bay farm was "a big club for tired brokers."

POLITICAL INFLUENCE

Reading from press reports, Mr. Woodsworth said two convicted brokers had received sentences of one and four months in jail, in addition to paying heavy fines. Judge Stubbs of Winnipeg recently had said from the bench that political influence sometimes was a powerful judicial weapon.

Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice, interjected that Judge Stubbs did not admit he had said that.

Mr. Woodsworth drew the attention of the House to a resolution of the Manitoba Legislature, which urged the appointment of a royal commission to investigate crime and the treatment of criminals. He gave statistics to show how criminal cases in Canada were greatly in excess, pro rata, of crimes in England, while marked increases had taken place in the last year in both Manitoba and Saskatchewan. If a royal commission was necessary, then one should be appointed.

IMPORTANT SUBJECT

Agreement the matter was one of great importance was expressed by Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice. He regretted Mr. Woodsworth had seen fit to bring it up in the closing days of the session, and also that the Winnipeg member had given him no notice of his intention to discuss it.

The majority of convictions were convictions by justices of the peace, police and stipendiary magistrates—all of whom were appointed by the provinces, he said.

Mr. Guthrie agreed it was impossible to secure uniformity with regard to criminal sentences. Circumstances did not coincide in any two cases. The minister spoke of the remission branch of the Department of Justice, and the work it accomplished in regard to clemency for convicted prisoners. He spoke also of the Ticket-of-leave Act, declaring that under that measure it was competent for any man or woman to bring his or her case before the Governor-General. These cases were numerous—between 4,000 and 5,000 annually. They were carefully considered and action was taken according to the circumstances.

Mr. Guthrie said he had considered the report of the British Royal Commission, saying that in Canada some of the methods recommended therein were being adopted. But it could not all be accomplished in the twinkling of an eye. In any comparison between convictions in Great Britain and Canada, no true idea could be had unless one had regard for convictions under the provincial liquor laws. These were exceedingly numerous, while in England they were rare.

INCREASE IN TOTALS

"Unfortunately the penitentiary population of Canada had increased, and it stood now between 3,800 and 4,000. In three or four years this increase was so rapid there was the greatest difficulty in accommodating the prisoners. But it was not correct to say that a line had not been drawn between the juvenile offenders and the hardened criminals. Under the law of this country a juvenile offender was a lad up to the age of sixteen. They did not go to penitentiaries but to reformatories. There was a limited number between sixteen and eighteen in the penitentiaries, while between eighteen and twenty-five the number was considerably increased.

But between the first offenders and the hardened criminals a great effort was being made to draw a very decided line, and for that purpose there had been established the preferred class penitentiaries. They existed for men who had no criminal records.

BEHIND BARBED WIRE

Mr. Guthrie touched on the case of the convicted brokers, asserting that previous criticism was unjust. The treatment given them was similar to that in the case of any man who was a first offender. The quarters were being conducted by prison labor. The hours, clothes, rations and treatment were the same in every way, he said, only the preferred class were not behind stone walls, but behind barbed wire fences.

WILKINS' CRAFT LEAVES ENGLAND FOR THE ARCTIC

Plymouth, Eng., July 28.—The submarine Nautilus, in which Sir Hubert Wilkins and his party plan to cross the North Pole under the ice, left here to-day for Norway, en route to the Arctic.

Hundreds witnessed the departure of the Wilkins party in its little craft as it passed alongside the Mauretania, just in from New York.

After an exchange of salutations, the Arctic craft headed for the English Channel and the North Pole, with its first port of call probably Bergen, Norway.

WHEAT BONUS BILL IS PASSED BY COMMONS

Measure Criticized Because B.C. Peace River Area Is Excluded

Ottawa, July 28.—The bill providing for a five-cent bonus on wheat grown in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta was passed by the Commons yesterday. Under its provisions, the sum of five cents will be paid "for every bushel of wheat grown in the provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba in the year 1931, and delivered to any licensed elevator in the western inspection division, commission merchant, track buyer or grain dealers, as defined by the Canada Grain Act."

The intention of the government was to see the grain producer receive the five cents, Premier Bennett told the House to-day. The Board of Grain Commissioners, which would administer the act, had been given to understand that. As the government understood the law, the bonus would not be subject to garnishee. The intention of Parliament to extend relief to the grain producers would be carried out, he said.

Wheat growers in the Peace River block of British Columbia would not receive the five-cent bonus, Mr. Bennett stated in answer to questions. The legislation was confined to the three provinces mentioned, and consequently producers of wheat in other provinces would not benefit.

NO AMENDMENT

A number of members suggested there would be considerable dissatisfaction in the Peace River section of British Columbia with respect to this decision, and Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Liberal member for Vancouver Centre, suggested an amendment providing for extension of the bonus might be introduced. The legislation, however, passed without amendment.

"SECTIONAL MEASURE"

Strong protest against the proposal embodied in the bill was made by Thomas McMillan, Liberal, South Huron, Ont. Characterizing it as a "sectional measure," Mr. McMillan declared it should not be passed by the Commons.

The farmers of Ontario produced 81 per cent of the agricultural products of Canada, yet they would receive nothing from this bonus, Mr. McMillan said.

There was still some hold-over in the hands of the farmers of the 1930 crop, declared A. M. Carmichael, Progressive, Kinderslay, Sask. Would the bonus be paid also on that?

The Premier replied an attempt would be made to separate that hold-over from the 1931 crop. It was not the intention to pay on the 1930 crop.

POSITION OF ONTARIO

Replying to a question as to why the bonus was not extended to Ontario grain-growers, Premier Bennett said an extreme and emergent situation existing among western grain-growers was being dealt with. These producers were far removed from their markets as distinguished from those in the east and found it necessary to pay transportation charges that left them only from as low as five cents to as high as fifteen cents a bushel. No such condition existed in Ontario.

"If the time ever comes," said Mr. Bennett, "when similar conditions arise in Ontario and Quebec, there will be no people respond more quickly than the people of the west."

TREATIES URGED

Dr. T. P. Donnelly, Liberal, Willow Bunch, Sask., suggested trade treaties be negotiated with Germany, France and Italy by which Canadian wheat might enter those countries. At the present time the continental market was closed to Canada because of the high tariffs erected against it.

Until Canada's wheat entered these countries, Dr. Donnelly could not see how economic conditions in Canada would be bettered. Tariff arrangements with them must be made in the same way as a trade agreement was negotiated with Australia.

DEAD NANAIMO SCHOOL GIRL HEADED CLASS

Chrysta Urban Was Brilliant Student; Inquest This Afternoon

Special to The Times

Nanaimo, July 28.—Chrysta Julia Urban, eighteen-year-old German High School student, who was found drowned Monday morning at Gabriola Island, was the most brilliant student of her class, having scored 927 points of the possible 1,000, or more than 200 more than the second highest student.

This was revealed by announcement yesterday of the full pass list, that issued on Saturday having only included the names of those students who passed in all subjects.

The girl had failed in algebra, in which she scored only twenty-three marks. She had won several gold medals at Victoria Convent, and won a gold medal the first year she arrived from Germany.

An inquest is being held this afternoon by H. Hickling, coroner, at the Jenkins Undertaking Parlors.

It is thought the girl took her own life in a fit of despondency caused by the belief she had failed in her examinations.

Veterans Study Employment Plans

Ottawa, July 28.—Notice has been served that at the forthcoming Dominion convention of the Canadian Legion, to be held at Niagara Falls, August 31 to September 3, special attention will be given to a study of the subject of unemployment, not only as it affects war veterans but also in the broader general sense.

NEW WORK PLAN FOR BIG STAFF AT TRAIL PLANT

Trail, B.C., July 28. — A plan of dividing work to keep as many employees of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company as possible busy, instead of laying off some and keeping others on full time, was announced today.

In shift work this is to be obtained by building up four shifts in place of three, each shift working fifteen days and laying off five before returning to work for a second period of fifteen days. This will be effective August 1. In departments where the shift scheme is not feasible men will be given a definite number of days' work each week. In the mechanical department, for instance, the week will consist of five days instead of six.

Lindberghs Are Off On Plane Trip To Orient

Fly From Washington to North Beach, N.Y., and Will Leave For Northern Canada

Will Have Plenty of Daylight as They Fly Across Northern Canada

Canadian Press

North Beach, N.Y., July 28.—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh arrived at North Beach late to-day from Washington, where they had gone to obtain final papers for their vacation flight to the Orient. They came down in the midst of a downpour.

The Lindberghs reached the airport at 2.45 p.m. (E.S.T.) and after riding for a few minutes in the rain-spattered bay left their plane at its temporary moorings and departed from North Beach. They announced they would return to-morrow and begin their long jaunt to the Far East.

Washington, July 28—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh left here to-day, hoping to land at North Haven, Maine, for family farewells before continuing their aerial vacation trip to Japan.

As he departed, Col. Lindbergh emphasized they were not traveling on schedule and would give no indication of the times they would leave their various stopping places.

The first hop brought the distinguished aviation couple to Washington yesterday from New York. At North Haven, Maine, they planned to bid goodbye to their son and Senator and Mrs. Dwight Morrow.

GUESTS AT DINNER

Yesterday evening they were the guests at dinner of Acting Secretary Castle of the State Department. The other guests included Dr. Stanley Hornbeck, chief of the far eastern division of the State Department, members of his staff who have lived in the Far East and Assistant Secretary Davison of the War Department. The evening was spent discussing conditions the fliers might encounter.

The Lindberghs' trim black monoplane was moored near the naval air station here. All night the pontoon-equipped craft was guarded by bluejackets as it rolled in the rays of a strong searchlight.

EMERGENCY EQUIPMENT

Complete emergency equipment is carried on the plane. Besides the regular luggage, including fur coats for the cold Arctic air the Lindberghs will find in northern Canada and Alaska, the aircraft has blankets, a stove and emergency rations newly packed in its graceful fuselage.

Although the plane has a capacity of 536 gallons of gasoline, Lindbergh said 350 gallons would be the maximum load.

PLENTY OF LIGHT

Canadian Press

Ottawa, July 28.—In their flight across northern Canada Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh will not be bothered much by darkness. A check-up made by the Department of Marine for information to give them when they reach Ottawa includes the following wireless received to-day from Churchill: "Darkness sets in at Chesterfield at about 9.30, and Baker Lake about 10.30. Coppermine (Coronation Gulf) does not yet become dark as sun only dips below the horizon for about three hours. At churchill dusk sets in about 10 p.m., but if the sky is fairly clear it would be safe to fly all night. Air Force planes here have flown at 2 a.m. recently."

GRASSHOPPERS SWEEP FARMS

Hordes of Insects Fought By Farmers in North Central United States

Associated Press

Minneapolis, Minn., July 28.—Science, apparently with its back to the wall, was fighting to-day to stem the tide of hordes of creeping, hopping and flying grasshoppers which are playing havoc with the crops of Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska and North and South Dakota.

At Des Moines, Iowa capital, plans were being made for a meeting of entomologists and agricultural leaders to devise means of combating the masses of insects which have moved relentelssly across the Missouri River eastward. At the same time Iowa state official sought an appropriation of $50,000 to fight the plague.

Meanwhile, militant farmers, armed with poison mixtures, returned to the fight.

More than 150,000 acres in Kittson and Marshall counties in northwest Minnesota have been nearly erased from the harvest picture. Polk County is estimated to have suffered a 50 per cent loss in grain crop. In a dozen adjacent countries the defence fight goes on, with local infestations reported in more than half of the counties in the state. These include corn, potato and onions as well as grain growing areas.

Prairies Have Rain After Days Of Heat Wave

Buildings Wrecked and Grain in Southwestern Manitoba Beaten Down By Wind

Elderly Farmer Seriously Injured When Horses Run Away During Storm

Winnipeg, July 28.—The July heat wave left the prairies to-day after scorching the country for three days. In its wake a cyclone, rain showers and cool weather appeared over the land. Thousands of dollars damage was done in the Mowbray area of southwestern Manitoba yesterday by a twister that trailed the heat on its burning path.

Barns were razed, crops battered to the ground, telephone lines wrecked and one man was injured by the cyclone as it passed over the international boundary district of Manitoba. The gale roared north from North Dakota, covering a strip twenty-two miles wide and removing buildings from their foundations. Hail accompanied the wind and beat grain into the ground.

The injured man, William Hisuck, sixty-year-old farmer, had one lung punctured and his right side crushed when a team of horses bolted as the gale struck the field in which they were working.

Windmills were toppled and garages blown over, and to-day Mowbray was without communication with the outside world as a result of the levelling of telephone and telegraph wires.

Fifty-seven civilian cases were disposed of in the report and only three remain to be settled.

Among the awards announced today was one of $704 to Mrs. Gratton McCarthy of Regina for damages to property in the occupied territory of Belgium.

DISABLED MEN DOUBTFUL OF WORK CAMPS

Ask Government to Consider Case of Men Unfit For Heavy Labor

Delegation Suggests Canadian Legion Register Unemployed Veterans

First protests on the British Columbia Government's form of registration of unemployed throughout the province were filed with the provincial government this morning when a delegation representing the North Vancouver branch of the Canadian Legion took up the matter of work camps with members of the cabinet.

Referring particularly to war veterans with disabilities the delegation claimed that it was unfair they should be asked to sign a declaration stating they were willing to go to work camps without being supplied with information as to the work they might be called upon to do. There were thousands of returned men in the province in receipt of small pensions who would find it impossible to do the heavy work that might be asked of them in the camps, members of the delegation said. This was a matter, they claimed, that should be given special consideration by men familiar with the subject.

VETERANS' COMMITTEE

Full particulars of the conditions that would prevail in the camps and the work to be done were asked. It was also suggested that, in taking registrations, clauses be inserted to cover returned soldiers and their disabilities. The delegates asked that registration of unemployed veterans in the province be conducted through branches of the Canadian Legion and a committee of three be named, one from the lower mainland, one from the North Shore and one from Vancouver Island to deal with returned soldier unemployed.

The delegation calling on the ministers consisted of Tom Barnard, provincial president of the Canadian Legion, G. L. Asquith, president of the North Vancouver branch of the Canadian Legion, and Lieut-Col. B. G. Wolfe-Merton.

PLAN ONLY TENTATIVE

Hon. R. W. Bruhn promised to place the suggestion for separate registration of veterans before the Executive Council. Plans for opening the camps were only tentative, he said, and the method of operation depended upon further word from Ottawa. The rate of pay for the camps had not been definitely fixed. They were proposed mainly to take the burden of transients off the shoulders of the city, and other plans would be worked out for the cities. If disabled soldiers were sent to the camps he thought they might be found light jobs and separate registration through the Canadian Legion would enable this to be done. He suggested that at the meeting of the Provincial Command of the Canadian Legion in Vancouver, August 5, a plan for registration of veterans be drafted.

FOREST FIRE SENDS CLOUD OF SMOKE OVER VANCOUVER

Canadian Press

Vancouver, July 28. — Vancouver was under a cloud this morning.

It was a cloud of smoke from the fire raging in the Pitt Lake district. While Vancouver got the smoke, New Westminster received a deposit of ashes.

Peculiar light effects resulted. During the night currents of air from the east drifted the smoke from the Fraser Valley toward the Coast.

At dawn a westerly breeze came down the Gulf and backed the smoke up, so that by 7 a.m. a heavy pall hung over Vancouver, particularly the English Bay section.

People wore jaundiced looks, white daisies appeared to be yellow and the sea was brown and the ripples muddy. The palest office man down for his morning swim had the appearance of a suntanned Hawaiian, and above it all the sun was visible—a big, red toy balloon.

To the north the mountains of the Coast Range were clear in a hard, blue sky. Westward the snowcaps of Vancouver Island stood out sharply. There was blue sky all around, except eastward, but over the city was that reddish-yellow blanket.

All-night revellers had a dark, brown look to accompany the well-known dark brown taste.

Berlin Checks Up On Money Exports

Berlin, July 28.—President von Hindenberg yesterday signed an emergency decree authorizing the government to order all persons or corporations domiciled in Germany, and all individual German states, owing money abroad, to notify a special government department in Berlin of the amount of all such indebtedness exceeding 50,000 marks (about $12,500).

The decree makes those who fail to comply with its provisions liable to a fine.

Another emergency decree promulgated yesterday authorizes the government to participate in business enterprises through the new Acceptance and Guarantee Bank, in the capital of which the state shares to the extent of about $20,000,000.

SHAW MAKES TALKIE DURING RUSSIAN TOUR

Says Civilization Has Arrived at Point Where Big Test Faced

Moscow, July 28.—While he was in Leningrad on Saturday George Bernard Shaw made a talking movie for the newsreel people. The text of his remarks was made public here yesterday:

"We know from history," he said, "that when many past civilizations arrived at the point which western capitalism has now reached, they degenerated and failed. Over and over the human race has tried to get around this corner and failed.

"Lenin originated a new method and got around the corner. If others follow his methods we shall have a new era of which we can have no conception.

"If the future lies with Lenin then we can all smile. If the world follows the old path, I shall have to take melancholy leave of this world."

He addressed his speech to "your majesties, my lords, ladies and gentlemen, comrades and proletarians."

CARRIED TENT AND FOOD

When Mr. Shaw, in company with Lord and Lady Astor and a number of other Britishers came to see how Russia was getting along under the Soviet, he thought things were so bad he would have to live in a tent.

To be prepared, he brought one along with him. Moreover, he had food, bedding and pillows in his duffle.

Shaw told about it—as a joke on himself—in a speech Sunday evening in the Concert Hall of Columns here, attended by workers, writers and educators who were helping him to celebrate his seventy-fifth birthday.

"We were told there was no food or other necessities in Russia," said Mr. Shaw. "After we crossed the border we found our equipment unnecessary, and so began throwing it away."

TRADE TREATY APPROVEVD

Ottawa, July 28.—Third reading was given in the Senate yesterday evening to the bill giving effect to the new Canadian-Australian trade treaty. All that now remains is for that measure to be signed.

JERVOIS SKULL IS DISCUSSED BY SCIENTISTS

Deductions Made By Sir Colin Mackenzie Given Mixed Reception

New York, July 28—Dr. William Gregory, curator of the department of comparative anatomy at the Museum of Natural History, yesterday evening said the discovery of the Jervois skull in Australia might be of "vast significance" to scientists.

"We have always assumed," he said, "that the erect posture of man goes back to the point where man and the anthropoid ape are separated. If Sir Colin Mackenzie has a skull which will prove man acquired an erect posture after that, his discovery is of tremendous importance."

NOT ACCEPTED

London, July 28—George Elliot Smith, professor of anatomy in London University, yesterday evening said he was "more than sceptical" of the correctness of the deductions credited to Sir Colin Mackenzie on the subject of the "Jervois skull," made at the Australian Institute of Anatomy. He believed the skull merely that of an Australian native with primitive characteristics.

A Canberra dispatch reported Sir Colin Mackenzie's address as follows:

A young woman who lived "when human beings were still attempting to walk erect and talk articulately" was described by Professor Sir Colin Mackenzie in a lecture to the Australian Institute of Anatomy to-day.

Sir Colin, giving the results of scientists' examination of a skull found near the Jervois Range in Central Australia, said it was the most primitive and complete human skull ever discovered.

"The Jervois skull," he declared, "bears out the belief that the muscular system by means of which man maintains an erect posture dominates his intellectual system. It shows all intellectual development has a muscular basis.

"An erect posture is a recent human acquisition and is still in the experimental stage. The Jervois skull teaches the world one must pay more attention to the factors on which our erect posture depends.

DISEASE FOLLOWS DISEASE

"We mistakenly have neglected the muscular while forcing the intellectual development, with the result that physical and mental illness is increasing all over the world. As soon as one disease, for instance, typhoid, is conquered, another, for instance, an epidemic of meningitis, springs up.

"The human race appears to be bending under the modern strain. The Jervois skull warns us from the past that we must conserve the muscular system on which intellectual fitness depends."

The Jervois skull consists of a cranium minus the facial portion and lower jaw. Its length is 173 millimetres, or about 6 4-5 inches, its breadth 5 inches, and the width of the forehead 86 millimetres, or about 3 2-5 inches. The back of the skull resembles that of an anthropoid ape.

HEAVY FIGHTING IN NORTH CHINA AS FORCES MOVE

Shanghai, July 28.—Conflicting war reports reaching Shanghai to-day agreed in only one particular, that heavy fighting was progressing on the Peiping-Hankow railroad south of Paoting.

Nanking asserted its Manchurian allies had assumed the offensive and had checked the rebel Shih Yu-San's advance in the region of Slinlo. Authoritative non-Chinese sources, however, reported that Shih Yu-san had captured Wangtu and taken 1,000 Manchurian prisoners, besides seizing thousands of rifles and much artillery.

These sources asserted Shih Yu-san was pressing northward, threatening Paoting, the most vital point of the Manchurian defence.

Foreign military authorities expressed the opinion that should Paoting fall Chang Hsueh-liang, Manchurian leader, probably would abandon Peiping and Tientsin, two of north China's most important cities, without further fighting.

MOVE NORTHWARD

Meanwhile the government reported Lieu Chih and his loyal Manking forces were driving northward, expecting to attack Shih Yu-san's forces from the rear. Lieu Chih, the government asserted, had captured Shaho, southern Chihli provinces.

Chiang Kai-shek, president of China's Nationalist government and head of its armies, remained at Nanching, directing what he chose to describe his "mopping up stage" in the drive against communists throughout southern China.

However, it was believed Chiang remained in the south also to watch developments in the insurgent movement centring at Canton. The Cantonese have announced they would start a drive north against Chiang's government early in August.

MACDONALD TELLS GERMANS OF CONFIDENCE

Says British Expect Republic to Win Fight Against Economic Odds

He and Foreign Secretary Henderson Guests at Government Dinner in Berlin

Canadian Press

Berlin, July 28. — That Great Britain's confidence in Germany was undiminished, was a statement made by Premier Ramsay MacDonald last night in an address at a dinner at the German chancellory, where he was a guest of Chancellor Heinrich Bruening

Referring to the visit of himself and the British Foreign Secretary, Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, to Berlin, he added: "We are firmly convinced that if Germany continues her efforts without giving way to despair, other nations will help her and not suffer her to go under."

CHEERED BY CROWDS

The British Prime Minister and Foreign Secretary arrived here separately Monday and both were given tremendous ovations by the German people.

Foreign Secretary Henderson arrived earlier in the day than Mr. MacDonald.

Both were guests at the dinner. Chancellor Bruening, after toasting President Paul von Hindenburg of Germany and King George V, welcomed his guests by declaring the German people "feel a lively gratitude" for this visit of leading British statesmen.

Responding to the toast of welcome, Premier MacDonald said:

"We were glad to receive your visit to London and we were equally pleased to accept your return invitation. Such mutual visits have become an absolute necessity for developing and strengthening good understanding in the world.

"We have not come to Berlin, however, merely to return your call, but also to show the world that, despite the difficulties of the present situation, our confidence in Germany continues undiminished.

"The results of the London conference," he said, "have not been a sensation, but those things on which an agreement was reached are already carried out to a great extent.

MACHINERY IN MOTION

"The study of the German financial position has begun, the advisers provided for by the London conference are here in Berlin, and the machinery is thereby set in motion. The most important fact is that the nations represented in the Lndon conference were able to agree about co-operation, about assisting Germany.

"All financial resources must be employed to hold together the structure of civilization. The underlying causes of the present crisis must sooner or later be clearly envisaged and a solution sought with the common sense and goodwill for which a feeling of mutual confidence is essential.

"This confidence has a personal as well as a national aspect. Great Britain and Germany have already done much in this respect and I hope similar future meetings will contribute to a still better mutual understanding."

DUTCH PHYSICIAN DIAGNOSES CANCER BY BLOOD TEST

Canadian Press

London, July 28.—One of the comparatively obscure physicians of Holland, Dr. Bendien, who has been patiently conducting cancer research work at Zeist, Holland, has been suddenly thrust into the front rank of the world's cancer experts.

Dr. Alfred Piney, research pathologist at the London Cancer Hospital, has just returned from a visit to Zeist, where, on behalf of the British Empire Cancer Campaign, he investigated Dr. Bendien's claim to be able to diagnose cancer by a blood test. Dr. Piney declares Bendien's claim is borne out by results and describes his work as the greatest step in fifty years toward an understanding of cancer.

Value For Duty Set By Ottawa On Cantaloupes

Ottawa, July 28.—The value for duty purposes has been fixed by the Minister of National Revenue, Hon. E. B Ryckman, on a number of fruits and vegetables.

Following are the values, according to a bulletin issued yesterday:

Canteloupes, muskmelons, honeydews and casabas, six cents a pound.

Pears, four cents a pound.

The values apply under the intermediate and general tariffs, and the weight of the packages are included in the weight for duty.

The values will not apply on goods bona fide purchased on or before July 27, and in transit to Canada on or before July 28.

Maginot Repeats France's Demand For Guarantees

Arcachon, France, July 28.—Andre Maginot, Minister of War, told the Reserve Officers' Union convention yesterday that if Germany should recover complete liberty to rearm, France would be obliged to increase its own armaments. This, he said, would start a new armaments race, which France did not desire at any price.

"If the delegates to next year's disarmament conference could organize some scheme of mutual assistance such as a coalition of forces against an aggressor, said he, France would be the first to reduce its military establishment.

"But," he added, "if this indispensable guarantee is not given us, then I can only repeat that we have reached the limit of our possibilities of disarmament."

1 OUT OF 5 SAID MAKE NO. 2
1 OUT OF 11 SAID MAKE NO. 3

What has experience taught Canadian motorists about tires? Two independent organizations asked them. The answer was overwhelmingly in favour of Goodyears. Goodyear preference 2½ times that of the next make—20 times that of the average for all other makes. The vote was taken in every province, in cities, towns and on farms. The question was: "What make of tire would you buy today?" The answers prove the fact which has been true for 16 years — MORE PEOPLE RIDE ON GOODYEAR TIRES THAN ON ANY OTHER KIND made anywhere in the world.

THE NEW LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR

NEITHER HON. W. C. NICHOL NOR Hon. R. Randolph Bruce had any experience in public life before being appointed Lieutenant-Governor of the province, but, as the record amply showed, neither was handicapped in the slightest measure by this circumstance. There is nothing new or novel, therefore, in the fact that when Mr. J. W. Fordham Johnson has taken the oath as Lieutenant-Governor he will make his first acquaintance with public affairs in a prominent way, and there is every good reason to expect that, like his immediate predecessors, he will render an excellent account of himself in his initial venture in that field. He is well known throughout the province, in which he has resided for some forty-seven years, as a successful business man, his associations having been, first, with the Bank of British Columbia before it was amalgamated with the Canadian Bank of Commerce, and, mainly, with the B.C. Sugar Refinery, of which he finally became the chief executive.

The Lieutenant-Governor is appointed by the Dominion Government to act as the representative of the sovereign for constitutional purposes. His term of office is five years or until such time thereafter as his successor is appointed. While the specific duties of his office are not onerous, the social obligations inseparable from his position impose a heavy demand upon his time and energy. Hon. R. Randolph Bruce was one of the busiest men in the province, and Mr. Fordham Johnson no doubt will find few idle moments on his hands. His many friends will wish him every success in the high office to which he has been appointed.

THE DUCKS ALSO

THE OTTAWA CITIZEN REMINDS US that bird life shares with the human element the distress which has been caused by the drought in western Canada. The feeding places of millions of ducks on the prairies have been dried up and vast numbers of these birds will be lost this year.

The Citizen thinks it may be possible to counteract some of the heavy loss under the Migratory Birds Treaty between Canada and the United States by cutting down the season of duck hunting this year. At present the season is varied in the different provinces between September and March. The ducks from the prairie provinces go south for winter feeding—spreading out across America from south of New York to California.

The United States has co-operated fully with Canada in the enforcement of the existing treaty. Provision has been made by Congress for an expenditure of $8,000,000 for the purchase of bird sanctuaries; water has been restored to drained areas in some states, where ducks from Canada were being deprived of feeding places. The sale of migratory game birds has been debarred. A conference has been held between Washington officials of the Biological Survey and the capable men at the head of the National Parks branch in Ottawa who are responsible, under the Minister of the Interior, for the administration of the treaty. Emergency action is apparently being considered to save the ducks.

At the very time of this impending failure of the duck crop in the prairie provinces, Prince Edward Island has rather heedlessly asked for an extension of spring shooting. No such extension could be permitted without departing from the excellent treaty which has been in operation between the United States and Canada since 1917—with the hearty accord of every Canadian province, as well as of every state in the Union.

Our Ottawa contemporary endorses Premier Taschereau's recent protest against the proposed extension of the season to shoot game birds. The Quebec Prime Minister said, in an interview with The Quebec Chronicle, "I am strongly opposed to any change being made to the federal Migratory Birds Act, to which all the provinces are signatory." With particular reference to Prince Edward Island's desire to permit spring shooting of geese, brant and other game birds, for the purpose of attracting gun-carrying tourists, he added:

> I feel strongly that this wild bird life should be accorded the existing protection under the Migratory Birds Act, and there is no doubt that if hunters are to be permitted to slay the birds in the spring, it will mean their eventual extinction.

Provincial authorities in New Brunswick are also protesting. Ontario, Nova Scotia, British Columbia and other provinces are equally concerned. This year particularly, because of the shortage of ducks from the prairies, it is probable that an unusual proportion of black duck and other game birds from Ontario and Quebec will be slaughtered by hunters in the south. The Citizen thinks an effort might well be made to curtail the shooting season to one month during the present emergency, while the ducks in the great Canadian breeding ground are in such distress.

RAILROADS AND REDSKINS

A RAILROAD GRADE CROSSING IN Texas claimed the life the other day of another of the human links connecting the present day with its lost frontier epoch. An Indian known as Old Roque, having attained the ripe age of 100, was killed by a passenger train near El Paso.

Old Roque belonged to a bygone era. He was one of Geronimo's band of Apaches, who harried the southwest in the old days until crushed in 1886. Thereafter Old Roque became a "good Indian," herding sheep on the Texas plains and, in the last years of his life, making bows and arrows for the white children of El Paso and teaching them archery and woodcraft.

All in all, the old chap's life spanned great events. He was born when Texas was a part of Mexico, and he kept on taking white men's scalps and burning homesteads for a whole decade after Custer went down at the Little Big Horn; and in his old age he became the friendly counsellor of white children, a survival in twentieth century civilization direct from the stone age.

It was strange that he should be killed by a railroad train—this old warrior who had donned war paint so many times and had faced the rifles of frontiersmen and the horsemen of the United States Army. Strange—and yet rather fitting.

For the railroad, more than anything else, ended the reign of the red man in the old west. When the first iron horse puffed across the plains the Indian was done for. A few bloody years of protest remained, but the end was inevitable.

An Indian warrior ought to die in battle. Failing that, however, it is something of a coincidence that this old fighter should die under the wheels of the mechanical monster that ended the reign of his tribesmen on the limitless plains?

ANNIVERSARIES

A YEAR AGO TO-DAY A MAJORITY OF the electors of Canada voted the Conservative party, headed by Mr. Bennett, into office, and the King administration out, incidentally also voting for higher taxes and decreased trade. They wanted a change and they have it—and a big change it has been, especially in the tax bill.

Three years ago the majority of British Columbia's electors also decided they needed a change, and they voted the MacLean government out and the present administration in. They also have had a change, especially in increased taxation. As both the King administration at Ottawa and the MacLean government in British Columbia were reducing taxation, and the electors did not want them, the governments which succeeded them naturally must have concluded that the electors were yearning for more taxes, and are doing their utmost to make good in that direction.

CURBING THE DOUKHOBORS

IN AN ATTEMPT TO PUT AN END TO nude parades by Doukhobors, Parliament has enacted legislation imposing a penalty of three years in prison upon any person who goes about in a public way "so scantily clad as to offend against public decency or order." This provision, although having no specific reference to Doukhobors, is aimed directly at them, and its effect upon the fanatical paraders of that sect will be awaited with interest.

Whn Hon. Hugh Guthrie was piloting this legislation through the House his attention was drawn to the possibility of its application to bathers, but he said he thought the good sense of judges and juries might be relied upon to prevent any abuse of the law. As far as the judges are concerned his reliance might be quite justified, but if by any chance a luckless bather in daring costume—and bathing costumes are becoming progressively daring all the time—got before some juries we have seen, he or she would have a hard time of it. While most people would take a tolerant view of cases of this kind, there is still a lot of intolerance and petty bigotry in the world; there are still people in every community who are shocked beyond measure by the modern bathing costume.

In the first instance, however, we shall have to rely upon the good sense of our police and police commissions, so that the legislation recently adopted at Ottawa shall not be interpreted too literally. Even if a bather got no farther on the road to prison than a sensible judge and jury, the preliminary stages of arrest plus a lawyer's fees would be a high price to pay for an innocent little dip in the sea.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

TRADING IN FUTURES
The New York Sun

The report of Canada's Royal Commission appointed to investigate trading in grain futures cuts most of the ground from under agrarian radicals in the United States and Canada who for years have advocated statutory prohibition of "speculation" in cotton and grain. At Washington and elsewhere there are always those who attribute to speculation in futures all the woes that beset agriculture. It is not to be expected the Royal Commission's report will silence this clamor, but it ought to make it less effective.

ONTARIO'S HYDRO SYSTEM
The Winnipeg Tribune

The annual report of the Ontario Hydro-Electric system for the year ended October 31, 1930, makes pleasant reading in these difficult days. The distribution of power increased from 1,145,522 horsepower in October, 1929, to 1,263,522 in October, 1930. At December last year a further increase to 1,266,278 horsepower was reported.

The total investment in power undertakings and hydro-electric railways of the system amounts to $359,648,041. This is made up of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission's own investment of $260,593,779, and the investment of the municipalities in distributing systems amounting to $99,054,262.

The commission collected from the municipal utilities and other customers $28,555,996. After expenses and fixed charges were deducted there was a net surplus to the commission of $1,262,456. At the end of the fiscal year the Hydro was serving twenty-six cities, ninety-four towns, 251 villages and 297 townships.

Those who fought for the system in the old days have every reason to be proud of the Ontario Hydro's achievements. It has become almost a trite statement to say that it now serves nearly all parts of the province. The people of Ontario should look back with gratitude to those sturdy souls who waged gigantic battle for the principle of public ownership which has secured for them the great boon of electric light and power at the lowest possible cost, a boon which men of less vision would have denied to them.

A THOUGHT

There is nothing which vanity does not desecrate.—Henry Ward Beecher.

Loose Ends

An idea of this column, unhappily, is confirmed by high authority — a generous act is done for a red-bearded gentleman—and something happens to two worms.

By H. B. W.

A GENTLEMAN who has some authority, has just confirmed one of the ideas of this column, which has none. This gentleman is Dr. C. E. Mees of Rochester, N.Y., director of research for the Eastman Kodak Company and an eminent investigator of engineering progress and such things. Well, Dr. Mees has just been telling a notable gathering of scientists that the progress of engineering, of machinery, has not succeeded in making life any happier than it was 4,000 years ago. "Will any student of history agree that the inhabitants of an American city are, on a whole, happier than those of a Greek or Babylonian city of the past?," Dr. Mees asked. "For myself, if I could exchange the life that I lead in a modern city for a life in Athens of the Periclean Age Age, or Thebes under the eighteenth dynasty, I think that I should undoubtedly accept it."

* * *

THAT IS a rather devastating thought, if you care to entertain it for a moment, for if it be true, and if the aim of civilization be the pursuit of happiness, then the progress of 4,000 years has been a washout. I had long suspected it. The public never suspects it and for a very simple reason. The public never stops to distinguish between happiness and comfort. We are much more comfortable now than they were 4,000 years ago, or at any other time, but that doesn't mean we are more happy. On the contrary, a good case could be built up from current observation to prove that the more comforts a man accumulates for himself, the greater luxury with which he surrounds himself, the less his capacity for enjoying them; and every man knows that he is happiest when he has the least comforts, when he is camping in the woods, fishing in cold water up to his middle, or sweltering most uncomfortably on a golf course.

* * *

FOR EXAMPLE, I do not possess the comfort of some of my rich neighbors, but I am much happier; and, continuing the process further, I am much more comfortable, sitting by my window here and writing this column than is George Pudbury, cutting his second crop of hay there with a scythe, while the perspiration pours off him, but I am quite sure he is much happier than I am. I don't think he knows what it means to be unhappy, for he has never considered the matter. And, mark you, for all practical purposes Mr. Pudbury is leading the life of 4,000 years ago, whereas I am the product of this high civilization which, I think, finally proves the soundness of Dr. Mees's ideas.

* * *

AS I WAS saying a few days ago, the responsibilities of a column like this are quite oppressive at times. Only to-day, for example, a highly-cultured gentleman with a red beard, came to me in great distress of spirit because he was obliged to doubt the truth of something which had appeared here. His tale was full of woe. He said he had found in this column recently the word "hyke," which he had never seen before. With a sublime faith in my philology, this poor old cultured gentleman with the red beard had spent the entire evening trying to find the verb "to hyke" in the dictionary. He did not succeed, not even when he searched ancient Latin and Greek roots to discover the original source of my wisdom. So at last he came to me, with a childlike innocence which was enough to melt even a column of this sort to tears. He wanted to know, unhappy old man with a red beard, from what language, from what authority I had derived the verb "to hyke," for he had been unable to find it spelt otherwise than "hike." What was I to do? To admit the truth, to admit that I simply didn't know how to spell the word, and that the proofreaders of this paper were in the same difficulty—that would have been to destroy his faith and shatter his dream. So, very gallantly, I told him that "hyke" was an old form of "hike," just as "dike" is a modern version of "dyke." In an excess of consideration for his feelings, I said it came from the Phoenician, through the Arabic, the French and the Eskimo until it had degenerated step by step into the vulgar modern form. This so relieved his feelings that I felt well repaid, and if I should "hyke" again instead of merely "hiking," you will understand that it is from the highest motives of kindliness towards an old gentleman with a red beard.

* * *

AN INDIGNANT gentleman, who seems to be something of a practical politician, has written to protest to me against my recent ululation on the subject of political campaign funds. He says, and quite sensibly, that there is too much hypocrisy about campaign funds, that it is absurd for the public to object to campaign funds since it is the public that makes them necessary. "When there are big rallies at the theatres who does the public imagine pays for them—Santa Claus?" asks my cynical correspondent. "When politicians travel about the country, does the public suppose that a fairy godmother is covering their expense accounts? Does it suppose that canvassers are going to work for the love of party, principles, which butter no parsnips? And what, my dear sir, would be the fate of a prime minister who, with his cabinet, remained home at election time, used no campaign funds and made no campaign?" It is there that my friend gets off on the wrong tangent. The fate of a prime minister who made no campaign and had no campaign funds at the present time would be hard indeed for his personal comfort—for he would assuredly be re-elected.

* * *

THERE IS another discouraging aspect of life to be witnessed at this very moment just outside my window there. On the grass, you note, is a young robin, one of this year's birds, scarcely able to fly yet, and very scrawny and ragged looking. And yet he has already started to practice the ruthless habits of his kind. You will see, if you look closely, that he has a worm in his bill, a little shiny worm about as old as he is himself. Even that, however, is not enough. The young robin is planning more devilry. He cocks his head on one side and then on the other. He runs along the grass, halts abruptly and listens. Then, having heard a movement in the soil, drops the worm, digs his sharp little beak down into the grass and emerges with another worm, a big one this time.

* * *

THE FIRST worm, poor fool, imagines that he is free. He starts to crawl away as fast and as quietly as he can, without even looking back over his shoulder. But he doesn't know the rapacity of a young robin. Before he has gone six inches, the sharp bill, already well filled with the large worm, is down upon him like a guillotine. He is scooped up in the twinkling of an eye and now there are two worms in the beak, and four wormy ends are wriggling and glistening in the sun in the most heart-rending fashion. Occasionally the robin puts them down on the grass to peck at them; but as soon as they start to move off, they are snapped up again. It will take a young robin a long time to divide up and swallow two worms, I suppose, and it is a melancholy picture of that cruel streak which runs through all nature. Well, anyway, young robin, you feed on worms. You do not slaughter your own kind without the excuse of hunger. And there you have the moral advantage over us.

(From The Times Files.)

The Washington press correspondents have come and gone. Their visit was a short one, but they, nevertheless, enjoyed it. It was their original intention to spend a day's fishing in the vicinity of Victoria, but delays on the way westward interfered with this. In consequence they had to cut the visit down to one night's time.

"TOMMY ATKINS"

To the Editor:—Recently I read part of an article written by Colonel C. Peck, V.C., published in The Times. In the course of this article Colonel Peck states that the word "Tommy," as applied to the British private soldier, is an instance of class-distinction.

Having served in three regiments of the British Army as a private soldier, I wish to state that Colonel Peck has made a mis-statement highly injurious to the rank and file of the British Army. The word "Tommy" as applied to the British soldier is akin to "pollu" and "doughboy," as applied with affection to the rank and file of the French and American armies, respectively.

The origin of the expression "Thomas Atkins," from which the appellation "Tommy" is derived, came about when the "Soldier's Book" first came into use in the British Army. In the sample copies issued to all units the name "Thomas Atkins" was used to show where and when the real soldier's name should be inserted. The term "Tommy" was rendered popular by Rudyard Kipling and has remained as an expression of affection and regard ever since.

As to class distinction? It is equally rife in Canada and America as in the older countries of Europe—it is a product of breeding and education to which all good Canadians should aspire.

I can assure Colonel Peck that in some regiments of the British Army the respective Colonels address officers and rank and file, collectively, as "Gentlemen."

THE BOY BENNETT

To the Editor:—In a machine age we are apt to become machine-minded and prefer engines, sensations and speed to the human touch, the truth and high-adventure.

To be sure, a noble spirit is sometimes found in just the places where those who sought had least expected to find it.

Nevertheless, sensationalism is the luscious fare dear to the heart of many audiences, who desire, above all things, what might be called the mechanical touch and the never-ending throbbing of rods and wheels.

But in youthful heroism there has been, perhaps, no more heroic character than the boy, John Noel Patch Bennett. Certainly there has been none more courageous, none who—under terrible hardships—has more undeniably put his love in God, none who has in face of privation exhibited such a love for his fellow creatures.

The diary of this dear lad—whose pages were written with dying hands—tell of the grim struggle ere he perished in the lone, rugged wilderness of the north.

We read in part: "I do sincerely thank God for bringing me this far. It shows I shall get through all right, so am not worrying any more."

"Poor Betty, the horse, entirely without food.

"Decided to abandon horse and hit back to cabin. Ate plain flour. No fire, but not so bad, though feet frozen. Terribly painful. Crossed the Missinchinnks with ice floating down—in bare feet, etc., etc.

Later, the guides found his body—presumably ravaged by wolves.

So we salute you, John Bennett, and we wonder at the brave communing. With slender sustenance, with feet and hands frozen—thou still can think of Betty, the horse, and instinctively and unflaggingly fix thy mind on God. Thou was of England, a product of an English public school, in thy case the school of love, though it may as well be called the school of sacrifice.

E. R. ELLIS-TUCKER.

LOGANBERRY PRODUCTS

To the Editor:—Much is printed, much said, about "Buy British Columbia Products," yet careful study reveals little accomplished. Does the public remain apathetic? Or is it because the so-called "Captains of Industry," after their grandiloquent speeches at "four-bit lunches" go back to their workshops and order American goods and push their sale with the consumer.

It is a matter of much regret, but both conjectures are correct.

Our farmers and fruit growers are not thriving, so how can they spend their money? If they prosper, you prosper.

The Public can do much and the "Captains of Industry" can do more, with splendid results to both.

This year this Province is faced with an abnormal crop of loganberries, an excellent and cheap fruit useful and delicious in so many ways. The surplus will run into many hundreds of tons. Loganberries, made into jam, are infinitely more tasty, more delicious and cheaper than the insipid California peaches that come into this market in thousands of cases. This likewise applies to canned cherries.

What more delicious drink is there than loganberry wine, non-intoxicating and so refreshing?

Every hotel, beer parlor, restaurant, refreshment stand and soft drink place, including those on our coastwise and deepsea ships, should be pressing its sale.

We are proud of the products of this Province—there are none finer—then why send your money abroad by buying products that are not simon-pure British Columbia?

By the encouragement of the loganberry industry a real step in the direction of prosperity within our Province will be accomplished; the consumer will obtain an excellent fruit at a low price; the growers will prosper, and the money will not only remain in British Columbia but will come back to the consumer, and a large industry will develop.

Think it over—buy loganberries for jam and buy loganberry wine—help the other fellow and you will help yourself.

DAIRY INDUSTRY

To the Editor:—A few economic reasons why no sane government can allow their dairy industry to be destroyed by excess importation of butter from other countries which can be sold at considerably less than the actual cost of domestic production.

I would grant that with an eighteen cent a pound Canadian import duty on butter that this would have the effect of increasing the Canadian consumers' butter bill by about fourteen million dollars, but on the other hand it would have the effect of reducing the consumer's annual butcher bill by more than $110,000,000.

Dairying is the basic foundation that all permanent farming is built upon, viz.: Approximately two-thirds of our beef comes from the dairy herds and probably ninety per cent of all the veal is from the dairies. Pork is also approximately forty or fifty per cent the product of the dairies. Poultry also derives a great benefit from the by-products of our dairies. Then let us not forget the lowly barnyard fertilizer that makes farming possible and gives us our potatoes and vegetables and other farm produce at a reasonable price.

It would be nothing else other than national suicide for any government or country to adopt a policy that would force the dairymen to produce at a loss and thereby put the beautiful dairy herds over the butcher's block, as is now being done with our pure bred poultry, because of the low price of eggs and the high price of feed. The excess railway freight rates are 21½ cents a hundred on grain and feed for domestic use, or in other words, the domestic rate is 41½ cents per hundred and the export rate is 20c a hundred.

I repeat, one boatload of Australian grain and mill by-products placed in our Victoria Ogden Point grain elevator would bring the railway barons to time, and I think this would be the quickest way to alleviate this excess domestic freight rate which has cost the people of this Province millions of dollars. Among many other things, we have to pay this excess freight rate on every loaf of bread we eat.

NOT INTERESTED

To the Editor:—Recently the City of Victoria celebrated the Diamond Jubilee of British Columbia. This event was well attended by local citizens and visitors from the States. As is usual in such events, the programme contained various patriotic and military features. Permit us to call your attention to an incident which, though not a part of that jubilee programme, may prove of interest—if not now, later.

Certain Christian people, members of our association, believing that this jubilee occasion was an opportune time to life a voice for the cause of true peace, arranged to have a public meeting Sunday evening, July 19. This meeting was quite well advertised under the general theme or subject, "The Christian Counter Offensive" and "Anti-war Measures." In addition to a newspaper advertisement, some several thousand small tracts containing announcement of the subject were also distributed throughout the city. Some of these tracts were handed to the public as they entered Beacon Hill Park to attend the "Divine Service with a Military Setting" Sunday afternoon.

According to newspaper reports, some four or five thousand people attended that "Divine Service with a Military Setting" Sunday afternoon. In contrast, just five strangers attended our Christian Pacifist service Sunday night, July 19.

There is a lesson in this, which, should you publish this letter, might be of interest to your readers. At any rate, this little incident, we believe, goes far towards proving that the World War, bad as it was, has in no sense prepared the people for peace, or the real message of peace.

Notwithstanding the numerous peace pacts and anti-war pledges adopted by various civil and religious institutions in recent years, if another war were to start to-morrow the clergy would "sprinkle that war with 'holy water'" and they, and other civic and social leaders would again do their utmost to encourage the masses to fall in line and do their "bit"; and the vast majority of people, "like dumb driven cattle," would quickly respond to the call and go forth to the slaughter.

Scripture prophecy and corroborative world events indicate that the final phase of Armageddon will shortly break forth. In the midst of that great conflagration many will realize that they brought this trouble upon themselves by their failure to hear and heed "the still small voice" of truth. —Matt. v 9; xxvi 52.

THE CHURCH'S FOUNDATION

To the Editor:—The gospel dispensation centres on Christ Himself, His person and His office. In all other religions, the thing taught, not the teacher, forms the creed. To behold Jesus is to discover God manifest in the flesh, and what of truth is not thus fulfilled forms no part of the Christian's creed.

The deification of man was the foundation of the Roman system. Jesus, on the other hand, was not a man who became God. He did not come out of humanity. He came into it. He was the unique consciousness of the only begotten of the Father. His was the unique consciousness of a mission to gather together that which belong to the Father in this worl members of His Father's househo a scattered condition. The secr His mission was to make the F known in His relation to the Son to make the Son known in relati His people. John xiv 20.

"I am come, He said, that they have life, and that they might h more abundantly." John x 10.

Jesus gave His life not as a m but as a sin-bearer, and as our stitute in order that we might r His life and righteousness in exch He brought His people from dea life. He called them from sin t pentence, He translated them darkness to light, He brought from the world to God, and by r of His resurrection brought them a lively hope of their resurrecti order to behold Him as He is. thus to them both the wisdom o and the power of God, and by r of them, few and weak though th to bring to naught the things tha

There is, therefore, a family o the father on earth, as in heaven, ing a common interest and a con expectation of being gathered into It is because they believe they no haste. There is a firmness support in a tried foundation, tainable from a policy of man's w and political intrigue. Faith w ever found knows that both cunning of man will overshoot mark, and that from inability to stand God's trial of fire, a fire proves every man's work of what it is. 1 Cor., iii 13. The schis spirit that threatens the Church's threatens its consumption.

When Calvinists say that God foreordained whatsoever comes to they mean that God is creation providence works according to God's plan and purpose is eternal includes all that comes to pass, and death and judgment to com among the things that come to God is not the author of sin, bu may withdraw His restraining and say, as in the case of Judas, thou doest, do quickly."

ESQUIMALT CUTS ITS EXPENSES

Slash Salaries, Indemnities and Working Hours, Also Reduce Staff

All Departments Come Under Pruning Knife in Retrenchment Programme

Wholesale reduction in salaries and wages, slashing of public works estimates, suggestion of abolishing the municipality's police and using the provincial force if the latter should prove less expensive, reduction of working days for employees and cutting of the councillors' indemnities for the remainder of the year, featured the first steps taken by the Esquimalt Council in its new rigid retrenchment policy evolved yesterday evening.

Indication that all proposed public works in the district would be ignored for the rest of the year and only that vitally necessary in the way of upkeep would be carried on was given by Councillor R. A. Anderson, who stated he hoped to save over $1,500 in this manner.

Consideration was given to the abolition of the police force. With a view to ascertain the feasibility of bringing the provincial force into the municipality, the council instructed the clerk to communicate with Hon. R. H. Pooley, Attorney-General, and member for the district, asking the costs entailed in securing the service of the provincial officers in the municipality.

UNABLE TO RETRENCH

The step was taken following the reading of communication from the Police Commission of the district, which informed the council the only method by which further economies could be effected would be by cutting salaries, which, the letter stated, were lower than those of other municipalities, or by reducing the personnel, a policy which the board was against on the grounds that the care of traffic, particularly near the beer parlors, as well as the other duties of the force, required all the men in the service.

Councillor A. Heald opened the discussion on curtailment of expenditures asking what policy the council would pursue if it were unable to secure a grant from the bank. "How are we going to get employees to work if we have no money to pay them," he inquired.

"We should go into every item and see if anything can be saved with the maintenance of efficiency," Councillor Heald replied in answer to his own query.

Councillor A. Lockley dismissed the idea of efficiency, maintaining that the straitened condition of the municipality's finances required stringent methods be taken even if efficiency had to be sacrificed to a certain extent.

MUST MOVE DRASTICALLY

"We have to be big enough to make a move and start right away with the public works. Big firms are taking drastic steps which they would never have considered under good conditions, and it is up to us to cut our suits from the cloth we have. There is lots of work which should be done, but we haven't the money for it. It has been suggested that we go to the bank for a loan, but every dollar we get will be a liability we have got to retrench and retrench deeply," he declared.

"I move every laborer of the municipality be taken off the monthly pay roll and placed on a day labor basis," he said.

"I don't think things are so bad that such a step must be taken," Councillor Anderson declared.

However, the motion, seconded by Councillor C. H. Smith, passed, with Councillor Anderson dissenting.

Reeve James Elrick pointed out that four men were influenced by the change, and opened a discussion on the remuneration to be given those who attended to night fire calls. This was set at $10 a month for each of two men.

Councillor T. Hadfield remarked the council was slashing down the wages of the laboring men who were going to find it difficult to make a living anyhow.

"For years I have fought for the best salaries, but the time has come to cut down," Councillor Lockley stated in reply. Still dealing with the laborers, he referred to the case of truck drivers, suggesting they be removed from the monthly pay basis.

PAY REDUCED

Councillor A. Heald followed with a motion that the pay for day laborers be reduced from an average of $4.25 to $4.00. His motion was carried with Councillor Anderson again dissenting.

Questioned as to what public work was to be done in the municipality, the latter replied that no further new projects would be undertaken during the year and employees would be kept on simply to look after maintenance.

"Are we within our rights in retaining an engineer on full time when there is nothing new for him to do?" Councillor Lockley asked.

Councillor Anderson replied with a delineation of the work done by the engineer, which required skill.

After considerable discussion, Councillor Heald forwarded the motion that the engineer be placed on a half time basis with his salary cut 50 per cent.

"I don't think it will work," stated Councillor Anderson, as the motion was passed.

TWO BAD YEARS EXPECTED

Councillor Heald added the remark that it was a certainty the engineer would be reinstated at the beginning of the year, but Reeve Elrick qualified the opinion with a statement to the effect he did not think any new public works would be undertaken in Esquimalt in the next two years.

The engineer will be given a month's notice before he is placed on the new basis.

Maintaining his stand of last meeting, Councillor Heald moved the council members forego their indemnities for the rest of the year with the exception of the reeve, who, he said, was called upon to meet expenses far greater than his indemnity in carrying out his work.

"These men whose salaries have been reduced will see no justification in our action unless we follow suit with the remuneration due us," the councillor stated.

WILL NOT RUN AGAIN

Preceding his remarks with the statement that he did not intend to be reeve next year, Mr. Elrick informed the gathering he could not afford to do his work for less than the indemnity he was given, adding that he was losing money through keeping the position.

"During the last week, I have put in over six hours a day at council business," he informed the meeting adding, "If I stayed another year here I would be bankrupt, and would become a charge on the municipality."

Councillor Hadfield reminded the gathering there were members of the board who were suffering financial loss in staying away from their occupations to attend council meetings and suggested that the original motion foregoing indemnities be changed to one of a 50 per cent reduction for the remainder of the year.

Reeve Elrick voiced his personal opposition to the move on the grounds that Esquimalt was not paying the councillors sufficient for the work they were doing.

SCHOOL BOARD TO PRUNE

Without giving any definite figures, Councillor Lockley, who is also chairman of the school board, informed the council the latter body was cutting its expenditures to the bone.

Councillor Hadfield moved the motion regarding the reduction in the engineer's working hours and salary be rescinded, and that he be given a position in the office to complete his working day.

It was followed by a motion dispensing with the services of the municipal clerk's assistant. While the work of the latter person had been greatly appreciated for many years, the council found it impossible to maintain the two office employees.

The clerk stated it would be impossible to carry on the office work by himself, and left it with the council to decide what assistance he should be given.

Councillor Hadfield's suggestion, slightly modified, was finally accepted and passed in a motion. It changed the engineer's occupation from being a full time employee into a half time man, but made up his salary with the grant saved by dispensing with the clerk's former assistant and appointing him as helper.

A reduction from $210 to $200 a month was made in the clerk's salary on a motion by Councillor Lockley seconded by Councillor Smith.

As a final move in its endeavor to save, the council endorsed the suggestion of Councillor A. Heald that the trustees of the Victoria Public Library be approached and requested to cancel the municipality's annual contract subscription.

RELIEF PLANS ARE DISCUSSED

Esquimalt Opens Registration; Council Criticizes Letter From Employment Bureau

Plans for starting registration of the unemployed of the district this morning and criticism of a letter from the Deputy-Minister of Labor regarding alleged discrimination against Esquimalt residents, marked the steps taken by the council of that municipality in its scheme to assist the jobless, considered at a meeting yesterday evening.

A letter was read from the provincial authorities giving the conditions required for registration and informing the council that any destitute person could file his or her name. Registration, however, did not guarantee relief, the letter said.

A motion appointing G. H. Pullen, municipal clerk, as registrar, passed. Names were accepted from morning starting at 9 o'clock.

The council was informed further arrangements on the matter would be made later.

SEE DISCRIMINATION

Considering a letter from the Deputy-Minister of Labor, the council expressed disagreement with the deputy's contention that no discrimination had been shown against the residents of their municipality.

In the letter the official stated the Employment Bureau was looking after Victoria City relief work and could only send men out on it if they were residents of the capital, under special arrangements with the Victoria authorities.

"That does not get away from the fact that the Bureau is handling work in Saanich, and that Esquimalt men are not permitted to join gangs going out to work there," Reeve Elrick said. "Just because Esquimalt men register, it does not follow they receive work."

He also referred to the fact that the provincial government was doing work for Saanich, asking why it could not do the same for Esquimalt.

CONTROVERSIAL STATEMENTS

Paying a visit to the Bureau, the reeve had been informed that no discrimination had been shown against the men of his district, but subsequent data had revealed there was, he averred.

Referring to a letter which illustrated this, he said the contention in the more recent communication did not gibe with the facts in the older one.

The new letter was one forwarded by Hon. R. H. Pooley, Attorney-General, and member for the district, from Adam Bell, Deputy-Minister of Labor, who had received it from H. Crisford, superintendent of the Victoria Employment office. It read as follows:

"With reference to your inquiry re the registration of the unemployed applicants for work from the district of Esquimalt. It is the custom of the employment office to register for employment any applicant who presents himself at the offices, irrespective of any residential qualifications.

NO DISCRIMINATION

"There has at no time been any discrimination shown against residents of Esquimalt, or any other municipality. It occurs to me that the suggestion placed before you may have emanated through the fact that our office has, since its commencement, handled the relief work for the city of Victoria, while the surrounding municipalities have distributed their own.

"The city of Victoria places all its relief orders through our office, but insists that we send only residents of the city, and further insists that all applicants first be passed as eligible for this class of work for their own registration and investigation officer.

"It is obvious that we have no discretionary powers in this connection, and applicants from other municipalities or districts if they inquire for relief work are informed that only the city of Victoria relief work is handled through our office, and that application for relief must be made through their own municipality.

"At no time has any applicant been refused registration for ordinary employment because of any residential qualifications. All applicants, whether from Esquimalt, Saanich, Oak Bay or elsewhere, within our zone, have equal chances of regular employment, provided they keep their registration up to date.

"The Victoria office zone runs as far north as Chemainus and registration cards are issued to any unemployed applicant who applies."

After hearing the letter the reeve and other members of the council stated they had learned in actual practice the bureau had adhered to the dictates of the city, but had shown no sympathy for Esquimalt in the matter of ordinary work. Residents of his district were constantly told to return to their municipality to find work when they applied, he declared.

Councillor A. Lockley questioned the right of the bureau, an institution maintained by the Province and Dominion, to carry on this work for the city of Victoria.

CAPITOL THEATRE

Betty Compson, charming featured player of Universal's "The Virtuous Husband," which opened yesterday at the Capitol Theatre, could not comprehend how it was possible to train lake trout while the company was "on location" at the famous Norconion Club in Southern California for early scenes of the picture. Betty found that it was possible to throw tiny pieces of white bread into the shallow water of the lake and vast schools of the fish would promptly appear and snatch at them. The discovery that she could attract the trout to any corner of the shallow water with the bread interested the famour star greatly, and Betty was away "feeding the fish" on many occasions when her director, Vin Moore, needed her for a scene.

Elliott Nugent, Jean Arthur, J. C. Nugent, Allison Skipworth, and Tully Marshall appear with her in the much-heralded "The Virtuous Husband."

COLISEUM THEATRE

The stately and graceful polka of the Roaring Forties, with its gay, carefree music, features the country dance sequence of "Abraham Lincoln," D. W. Griffith's film romance for United Artists, now being shown at the Coliseum Theatre. A special instructor, one acquainted with period dances, was engaged to teach the more than 200 extras the elegance and intricacy of the rhythmic polka.

DOMINION THEATRE

Gentlemen prefer blondes—and so do the movies. The sparkling blonde stars glitter in great number and luminescence in the movie firmament. In fact, the brightest stars in the movie sky are blondes—Garbo, Bennett, Harlow, Pickford, Dietrich.

And now a new star his risen! She bids fair of arranging herself with the aforesmentioned. Every time she appears, she sparkles more brightly than before. She is Joan Marsh, who plays one of the leading roles in "Meet the Wife," the Columbia picture, produced by Christie, now showing at the Dominion Theatre.

While it is in no sense a musical play, the background of wild Scottish scenery and the continuous musical synchronization throughout the dramatic film "The Lady of the Lake," also showing at the Dominion this week, is such that a famous critic called the picture a "Scotch Rhapsody." In the use of music, Director FitzPatrick has endeavored to reverse the usual order, by having the picture literally accompany the music. Immortalizing a tender love story, in the magnificently picturesque Highlands of Scotland, "The Lady of the Lake" readily lends itself to musical interpretation.

COLUMBIA THEATRE

The most senaational jail-break ever filmed provides one of the many dramatic moments in "The Doorway to Hell," the Warner Bros. and Vitaphone production which features Lewis Ayres, Charles Judels, Dorothy Mathews, Leon Janney, and other well-known players, now at the Columbia Theatre.

The picture shows a rival gang outside the prison deliberately framing the jail-break, through underground channels, so that they may have revenge on an escaping gang leader.

COMING TO COLISEUM

The many lovers of British pictures in Victoria will be delighted at the new English farce: "Lord Richard in the Pantry," which will show at the Coliseum next Saturday, and which contains a cast of many stars famous on the London stage. Some of the wittiest lines and crispest dialogue yet heard in an English picture are contained in this.

Richard Cooper as "Lord Richard," gives a bright and snappy performance, and is strongly supported by Dorothy Seacombe, a beautiful and clever London stage actress, Frederick Volpe, who played so finely the part of the admiral in the "Middle Watch," and Leo Sheffield, famous for his character parts in England, Canada, and the United States in the D'Oyly Carte Opera Company. Victoria will remember his fine "Pooh Ba" here in "The Mikado."

The photography, recordings and settings are the best yet seen in British pictures, and shows the great advance the Old Country is making in this direction.

Australia has been termed the land of pests, mostly imported from other countries. One of these is the prickly pear, a plant of American origin, which has spread over 50,000,000 acres of land in Queensland and New South Wales.

SISTERS HELD BIG REUNION CELEBRATION

Former Pupils of St. Ann Join in Tribute to Pioneer Women of Island

Isabelle Burnada, Noted Contralto, Takes Part in Clever Programme

Women's share in the pioneer life of Vancouver Island was graphically recalled yesterday evening by the very delightful programme presented by the Sisters of St. Ann in connection with the annual reunion of old pupils and in conjunction with the celebration of the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation. Once again the auditorium of the academy proved inadequate to accommodate the large audience, who thronged the corridors and stairs and vigorously applauded the various items on the well-planned programme.

A series of tableaux recalling well-known pioneer women, illustrated with historical readings, formed a major part of the programme, while the outstanding feature of the musical section was the singing of Mme. Isabelle Burnada, well-known Canadian contralto, who came from Vancouver at the special invitation of the Sisters to assist in the programme.

TABLEAUX VIVANTS

Miss Flora Hamilton Burns introduced the programme with the reading of a tribute to the pioneer women, after which the first tableau showed Mrs. Barkley, wife of the captain of one of the first trading vessels to come here and the first white woman to set foot on the Island. Among other notable characters received with applause was Queen Victoria, ably impersonated by Mrs. R. B. McMicking, to the accompaniment of a reading by Miss Ethel Bale of "Our City's Regal Name," an adaptation of Tennyson's poem.

The early association of Mme. Belasco and her afterwards famous son, David, with Victoria, was recalled by the scene in which Mrs. Gordon B. Paterson and her own small child appeared, the Angelus ringing and the Sisters of St. Ann singing their evening hymn as the mother rocked her babe to sleep.

OLD WORLD AND NEW

"The Old World and the New" was graphically illustrated by an old Indian squaw, impersonated by Theodora Rogers, and a crinolined lady of pioneer days here, posed by Nellie Redgrave; and "In the Beginning" suggested the tasks which were allotted to the women of pioneer days, one being engaged in hoeing, another picking up faggots, and another tending her baby on a rough bed of leaves. This was impersonated by Yvonne Kelway, Bernadette Colbert and Mary Hughes.

Illustrations and material from "Pioneer Women of Vancouver Island," written by Mrs. N. de B. Shaw, provided the theme for the series of interesting lantern slides of pioneer brides and other women associated with the early history of Victoria, shown to the accompaniment of thumbnail word portraits, prepared by Miss Marjorie Graham and Miss Iris Pike.

ISABELLE BURNADA

Miss Burnada delighted the audience with her artistry and the beauty of her voice. Among her numbers, all exquisitely accompanied by Miss Dorothy Mileson, were La Forge's "Before the Crucifix," three folk songs, "Jeunes Filletts," "Bens of Jura" (Scottish), and "El Majo Discreto" (Spanish), and the operatic selection, "O Don Fatale" (Verdi), called for encores, and she very graciously added two popular numbers, which showed equal facility in this field of song, "Danny Boy" and "Dixie."

A brilliant young pupil of Miss Burnada's also took part on the programme, Miss Margaret Kickham of Vancouver, who made a very favorable impression with her charming singing of "Ave Maria," Santa Lucia," an aria from "Faust," and a Swedish folk song, "When I was Seventeen."

Vocal numbers were also contributed by Mrs. Chas. E. Wilson, well-known Victoria singer, who was accompanied at the piano by her little daughter, Gloria, in "Lungi dal Caro Bene" (Secchi), and, as an encore, "Grey Days."

HELD RECEPTION

During the afternoon the Sisters held their annual reception for former pupils, when many members of classes of bygone days renewed acquaintance with former school chums and relived again the days of their youth in happy reminiscences.

CHILDREN BLAZE TRAIL TO PEACE

World Education Conference Hears Idea For Exchange of Primary Scholars

Denver, Colo., July 28.—The road to international peace will be blazed by children, speakers to the opening sessions of the fourth biennial conference of the World Federation of Education Associations told delegates yesterday.

The message came from opposite corners of the earth, first stated by Mrs. A. H. Reeves, Philadelphia, chairman of the home and school department of the conference, and later reiterated by Capt. H. N. Penlington of Hemsworth, York, England, chairman of the elementary school division. He proposed an international exchange of pupils and teachers.

"Friendship is the only sure foundation for lasting peace," said Mrs. Reeves, "and children are naturally devoid of race prejudice. It is from what adults give them through home conversation, books and the cinema that children acquire consciousness of the differences which separate."

EXCHANGE OF SCHOLARS

Captain Penlington offered the plan whereby international goodwill would be promoted by exchange of primary school children as well as teachers among various countries of the world.

Dean Milton Benton of the department of education at the University of Utah, following the same line of thought in speaking before the division of preparation of teachers, pointed out ways and means as to how instructors should be trained to teach international understanding.

"Every subject in a teachers' college," he said, "may make some contribution toward better international understanding. Even physical education will make a contribution and physical activities which have an international interest are taught. All mankind has a tendency to play and that common tendency may be used to good advantage to bring about mutual understanding."

GARDEN PARTY AT "MOUNTJOY"

Native Daughters of B.C. Plan Attractive Affair For Aug. 8

The Native Daughters of British Columbia, Post No. 3, have been preparing for their annual garden fete, which this year is to be held on August 8, Mr. and Mrs. Fred B. Pemberton having kindly loaned the beautiful grounds of "Mountjoy," Foul Bay Road, for the occasion.

Mrs. J. C. Newbury is general convener of the arrangements, Miss Mae McCorkall is arranging the programme, Mrs. R. A. C. Grant will have charge of the decorations, and Mrs. Lorimer will superintendent the tea arrangements. The affair will open at 2.30 o'clock, and continue until 6 p.m. The members of the post will don early Victorian costume, in accordance with their usual charming custom.

Last year the post held its garden party at the home of the late Hon. J. S. Helmcken, the affair being a huge success, and they hope the general public will again patronize their efforts, and at the same time seize the opportunity of seeing one of Victoria's most beautiful gardens.

MILITARISTS ARE ATTACKED

Sociologist Says "If Every Gun For Defence, Against Whom Are We Arming?"

Denver, Col., July 28.—World militarists were attacked by Dr. Alsworth Ross, professor of sociology at the University of Wisconsin, in an address today at the fourth biennial conference of the World Federation of Education Associations here.

"The militarist," said Dr. Ross, "takes great credit to himself for never asking one penny for offence. He is only pleading that his country 'put itself in a posture of defence.' And who but a communist, or a 'traitor in the pay of Moscow,' can object to his country being prepared to protect itself?"

"However, in the demands militarists the world over are making on their respective governments, every gun is for 'defence,' not one for aggression. But if all the armies and fleets are for defence, against whom are we arming?"

SCENE OF GARDEN FETE TO-MORROW

Hatley Park, the beautiful estate of Mrs. Dunsmuir, will be the scene of a garden party to-morrow from 10 until 6 o'clock, under the auspices of the Colwood Women's Institute. The Victoria Girls' Band, in their smart scarlet and white uniforms, will play on the terrace, and other attractions will include afternoon tea. The gardens are well worth a visit and patrons will have the dual satisfaction of combining a pleasant few hours and augmenting the institute's funds for crippled children and community betterment.

He picked up after the First Feedings of EAGLE BRAND . . .

BABY DICK should have gained about a pound each month like other bottle-fed babies . . . but somehow the scales stood startlingly still. No food seemed just right. . . . Then the family doctor suggested Eagle Brand. Soon the indicator of the scales began to move forward notch by notch, away from the danger point—and each notch brought cheer to an anxious mother. Eagle Brand had won the day for Baby Dick—as it had for thousands of other babies.

It's a wise rule—if you cannot nurse your baby—do not experiment—use Eagle Brand. It has proven unsurpassed for 74 years.

"Hello, there, Lefty!"

"John, don't call him 'Lefty!' He can't help using his left hand."

"Why can't he? If he's going to go to West Point some day he'll have to learn to hold a gun, I guess. And he's got to stand up straight. Get those shoulders up, Son."

"Oh, I'm tired," said Son, whose name happened to be Jack. "I'm a terrible fellow, ain't I—always something wrong."

"No—you're perfect," smiled his mother kindly.

"Well I guess you think so just because you're a woman. Dad knows I'm no good, don't you, Dad?" He said this with a half hopeful glance at his father, a look which said plainly, "Why don't you contradict me?"

His father did go far as to say, "Well, Jack, I think you have the makings of a fine boy, only you seem to do everything wrong. That's all. For goodness' sake sit up straight and stop lounging. You never see me lounging like that!" And Captain Stokes drew up his own military shoulders proudly. Then suddenly he changed the subject. "How are you getting along with your studies. Caught up yet? Ready for re-examinations?"

Jack was silent.

"John," his mother interceded, "don't be so hard on him. He is studying really, only mathematics are very hard for him. And you've kept him so busy on the grounds this summer, and you expect him to run us around everywhere in the car. Really his time's cut in two fearfully. He scarcely ever has an hour to himself."

"Why don't you get up early and study? You ought to be up by 6 o'clock anyway and study till 8 o'clock. You're a lazy young scoundrel, that's what. When I was your age I had to —."

"Dad, don't I ever do anything right?" exclaimed Jack indignantly.

His father looked at him sternly. "Well, you're worth saving, but that's about all."

"John!" exclaimed Jack's mother.

"I'll just say this. If I had a young fellow in my company who was as—as do-less as this young scamp, I'd break him."

"But Jack isn't in your company. You're his father and he's only sixteen years old. He's still growing."

"No, he's not my son, he's just your baby," shouted Captain John as he strode out of the room.

"Dad hates me."

"No, he doesn't. He's a soldier first and a father last, that's all. Oh, dear, how I wish you two could be better friends. I'm so worried. Really, Jack, you are very fine. Everybody likes you. Please don't lose all faith in yourself yet."

Jack was silent. What was going on in his mind? Already he had lost self-respect—he was filled with inferiority and resentment. Defeated before I began. It was too bad. He was thinking, "There's no use trying. If I'm ju no good I'm no good. I'll run away For he prized his soldier father's opi ion. But youth and growing muscl had tricked him and he didn't know

BUSINESS CLUB ENJOY CONCERT

Clever Entertainment Given at Headquarters Yesterday; Picnics Planned

Under the joint auspices of the dramatic committee and the glee club, the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club held a very successful entertainment in the headquarters, 1118 Langley Street, yesterday evening, a large number of members and friends enjoying the clever programme, which was convened by Mrs. Hall.

The programme took the form of "a musical evening in any truly refined home, anywhere in England, any time during 1831." In this atmosphere was shown the hostess, played by Miss Van Becker, who indulges in the "vapors" when overcome by emotion; the young gallant, played by Mrs. Sylvia Holland; Sylvia, his lady-love, impersonated by Miss Bessie Richards; Miss Belinda Cruikshanks, played by Miss Foxall; and their visitors, including Miss Elsie Richardson, Mrs. E. H. White, Miss Unwin and Mrs. Darling, who gave an amusing study of an old man.

Vocal solos and choruses were sung and recitations given by the various characters, including such old-time favorites as "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes"; "Juanita," with guitar accompaniment, and "Love's Old Sweet Song." The second half of the programme was laid in a 1931 setting, with musical numbers appropriate to the day. The participants were warmly applauded for their clever entertainment.

On Monday evening next the club will hold a picnic supper at the home of Miss Ethel Thornley, Cook Street. Members are reminded to take their own supper and cup. Sunday, August 9, will be set aside for an "international picnic" at Port Angeles, at the invitation of the Port Angeles club. Members will leave by boat at 10 o'clock in the morning, returning to Victoria in the evening.

APPOINTMENT OF GUARDIAN FOR HUSBAND ASKED

Mrs. Victor A. Searles Makes Extraordinary Allegations Against Millionaire

West Palm Beach, Fla., July 28.—Mrs. Victor A. Searles of Palm Beach, New York, and Atlantic City, is seeking appointment of a guardian for her millionaire sportsman husband, charging him with habitual drunkenness and lavishing money on other women.

The charges were brought in an amended bill of complaint filed in her suit for separate maintenance for herself and five-year-old daughter. The bill asks $2,000 monthly for Mrs. Searles and the child, Betty.

The complaint sets out that Mrs. Searles is informed that her husband "is now being investigated by the department of justice," and alleges Searles has been guilty of white slavery in violation of the Mann act, spending thousands of dollars on other women in Florida and the east, but failing to provide living expenses for his wife and child.

Mrs. Searles further charged the body of her husband's first wife, Mrs. Charlotte Irene Searles, is held without burial in an undertaking establishment here, while the body of a woman she said was one of Searle's intimates was held in "cold storage" in a northern city.

Forced to It

"There was only one picture at the exhibition that I could look at—yours."

"Thanks, old fellow."

"There were so many people crowded around the others."

Fire walking, a weird ceremony of East Indian countries, still is performed by religious fanatics who walk with bare feet over large beds of burning charcoal in order to purge their souls of sin.

YOUR BABY and MINE

by MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

BED-WETTING IS A BAD HABIT, NOT A DISEASE

Every conceivable problem on infant care has been discussed over and over in this department; but sometimes, when I seem to have said everything possible on a subject, I let it drop. I admit my error.

"I read your column daily, but have never noticed anything on bed-wetting," writes Mrs. B. H. B. "My five-year-old wets the bed every night. I lift her out, but if I don't waken at a certain time, it is too late. I have two boys twelve and fifteen, and never had this trouble, and all have the same training. I have taken her to a doctor. Is this a disease or a bad habit?"

CHILD SHOULD STAY DRY

Bed-wetting is just the uncontrolled habit of secreting the urine the moment there is any appreciable collection in the bladder. Children learn control of these muscles first in daytime and eventually it becomes automatic and holds over during sleep.

At five years the child is perfectly capable of staying dry at night, and the important thing is that she know this. "Lifting" her indicates that you attend to seeing that she gets into the bathroom, whether she is awake or not. She can't learn control that way. Waken her thoroughly by calling her or using an alarm clock, but let her get up by herself. She can do it. She should assume the burden of keeping herself dry. Furnish a covered chamber if the bathroom is far away, a flashlight and an alarm clock. With these accessible and convenient aids she doesn't need any help from you. The more you remove yourself from the picture the more quickly the child will carry her own burdens.

SHIFT RESPONSIBILITY

She may have had the same training as the boys, but her position is far different. She is the baby; this dependence upon you solidifies her position and she is reluctant to discard it.

We offer a leaflet on "Bed-wetting," which you could read profitably. Please send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope for it.

Let her help wash her bedding if she wets it. Make no mention of her habit one way or the other. If you talk too much about it, she may continue it because it gives her the unique distinction in your family of being a "bed-wetter." We don't know why children enjoy having these unenviable reputations, but they do. In all things the mother accomplishes more by saying nothing, either in praise or blame, and by shifting the responsibility for staying dry on the child. Make it possible and then expect the child to do it, making no particular comment on her failures, but assuring her that when she wants to stay dry, she can.

Mrs. G. J. T.: Yes, you are quite right. I have written a book on infant and child care and feeding which was published several months ago. It appears on my leaflet called, "Reference Books For Parents." This leaflet may be obtained by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request to the "Your Baby and Mine" department of this newspaper.

Woman Fatally Hurt When Fast Auto Turns Over

Canadian Press

Wenatchee, Wash., July 28.—Mrs. Catherine McNeil, sixty-five, Vancouver, B.C., was fatally injured Sunday here when the car in which she was riding rolled over on a curve near Ephrata.

She died an hour later from a fracture of the skull in the sanitorium at Soap Lake. The car was reported to have been traveling at high speed.

Other occupants of the car were not injured.

They were her son, Rev. Father J. C. McNeil, pastor of St. Peter's and St. Paul's Church, Vancouver; Rev. Father John Keewan, pastor of the Immaculate Conception Church, Vancouver, and Miss E. Cummins, all en route to Spokane to visit another son, Rev. Father Arthur L. McNeil, of St. Michael's College.

The body was sent to Vancouver. Another son, Victor M., left Cleveland, Ohio, for Vancouver yesterday.

not organizations with a method. The nature of the Church which He set up is therefore determined by the gospel call. If the call is outward, and stress laid upon batism and communion rites, the Chruch is made up of all who make that profession. If, on the other hand, the call is to repentance toward God and to faith in the Lord Jesus Christ and the hearers are begotten to to a lively hope in their resurrection with Christ, then the Church consists of those upon whom God's mercy and grace is bestowed. Just as an army consists of those who enroll themselves as soldiers, in obedience to command, so those who are enrolled as citizens of heaven obey Christ Himself. They say, as the Samaritans once said to the Woman of Samaria, "Now we believe not because of thy testimony, but because we have heard Him ourselves and know that this is indeed the Christ, the Savior of the World." John iv 42.

Jesus's word, as all God's word spoken to man, are spirit and life. In all other religions it is a groping under a state of darkness, groping as the blind for light. It is pitiful indeed to behold the blind leading the blind to the verge, if not beyond the verge, of disaster. God's sent messengers bring the word of God, not their own wisdom, nigh to us, nigh to our mouth and to our hearts in order that faith may be established in the hearts and confession made with the mouth. Confession of a lively hope through a knowledge of Christ risen, risen a quickening spirit, in order to quicken the dead in trespasses and sin. Eph, ii 1. The gospel message therefore must dawn upon the soul or spirit of men not only as a new discovery, but a new recognition. A recognition of God Himself, not only bringing His word nigh to us, but with it that power of will to obey it from the heart. Sweet and powerful, therefore, is the divine message savingly realized.

RE 1931 CROP

To the Editor:—Some time ago I received a credit slip from Penticton Co-op Growers for nine boxes of Duchess pears, pool price 9 cents per box, handling charges 8 cents per box, cost of picking 5 cents per box, hauling 5 cents per box. Loss of 9 cents per box, plus cost of growing. Result: One grower who cannot travel, fortunately anchored in musical Victoria, the beautiful, where he eats two meals per day, holding weight at 176 and employed at talking and writing gratis. We are so rich that we do not want to pay the producer anything for his products, so that we can get richer, and what is the producer to do? Listen, producers! You cannot afford to appeal to man for justice, for that would leave you still poorer, so just practice knee drill and tell God, the Judge of the poor, to handle your case, and He will. No expense in that High Court.

VETERANS' APPEALS

To the Editor:—May I be permitted through your columns to say a few words on the subject outlined below.

Is the veterans' tribunal functioning in a fair manner and to the best interests of the disabled man, his family and the country generally? When I speak of disabled man, I refer to those who are suffering grave disabilities and unable to get out in the usual way and earn a living for themselves and family.

When the veterans' tribunal was formulated it was fully understood that a fair public hearing would be held and an honest finding found in each case, giving the applicant the benefit of any doubt, providing the circumstances of disability were possibly or probably the result of war service.

It will be well and wise for the officials of our various returned men's organizations to keep a close watch upon these tribunal proceedings in the full interests of their members applying for justice under the administration of the veterans' tribunal.

I say this is necessary, because in reviewing my own case, which involves grave disabilities (incurred and contracted overseas) and which have been ignored by the Department of Pensions and National Health over a period of nine years, and which the veterans' tribunal in March last, by ignoring the medical and other evidence produced at the inquiry, brought in their findings, the disabilities not considered due to or aggravated by war service.

What a disgraceful travesty of justice!

Since the disabilities are of such grave nature as to prevent me from entering the labor market in the ordinary way, and as there is no appeal against the decision of the Pension Appeal Board, I consider I am fully entitled to bring this matter of indifference or policy of economy (whichever it is) to the public view, not from a personal standpoint, but as a matter of right principle, honesty and fairness.

I see by The Times issue of July 13 that the tribunal sitting this week is trying to sidetrack a case of osteo-arthritis, because the applicant was transferred to the Imperial forces. I mention this particular disability, knowing from bitter personal experience over a period of many years its grave nature, and knowing full well that anyone so afflicted is practically unable to work at any of the usual tasks of life. Such disability should receive the greatest sympathetic consideration.

The point I wish to convey in this letter is this: That any indifference on the part of the members of the tribunal with respect to grave disabilities of this kind, whereby a man is unable to meet the ordinary obligations of life for himself and family, can be very truly described as a neglect of duty to the Dominion, in as much as it causes needless suffering to the family concerned.

The disabled man in asking for a fair, just decision by the tribunal is not seeking charity, but that which he has every right to command, under the promises given to him on his return from his self-imposed task of duty to his home and people, as proved by his war service.

And if the Dominion can supply pensions to those able to do the day's work, then they surely should be able to care for those whose health is broken completely.

There is no doubt that this continued struggle for existence on an inadequate pension by those unable to work is apt to foster in the man concerned a bitterness of spirit not conducive to the good development of our country nor the well-being of our children who are thus deprived of many of the requisites of living.

Persistent indifference or neglect to a man's just claims for honest treatment by the Department of National Health and Pensions is apt to break down the barriers of good citizenship and self-respect, and thus militate against our country's well-being.

Therefore, I say, it will be well for the country if the Department of National Health and Pensions and the officials of the veterans' tribunal if they show a fairer, cleaner viewpoint, when considering the cases of the disabled returned man, which may be brought before them, of the desire to be worthy of their important position in our country's welfare.

Mr. John Moxam Specifies Chromite for 24 Bathrooms of New Apartment

CHROMITE is more beautiful than tile, and just as durable. It will not chip, crack, scale or discolor, and is exceptionally easy to keep clean. Yet this new tile finish costs less than half that of tile.

We reproduce here a letter from Mr. John Moxam, prominent apartment house builder of Victoria, who has specified Chromite in each of twenty-four bathrooms of a new Victoria apartment.

Gentlemen—

In January of this year (1931) I was in your office on business, and had your Chromite Tile Exhibit shown to me.

At that time I was so impressed with the beauty of the product that, while somewhat sceptical that the finished work would be as attractive as the samples, I decided that as an experiment I would order one bathroom done with it in an apartment block which was at that time under construction for me on Linden Avenue.

I am so pleased with Chromite, its beauty, ease of cleaning, and cost, that it is being specified for each of the twenty-four bathrooms in the new apartment block which I intend building in the near future.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) JOHN MOXAM.

Your present bathroom may be equally beautiful as that of the most modern home or apartment by installing Chromite directly over old ugly plaster walls, without removing fixtures.

Our representative will bring the new Chromite exhibit to your home, and give you a free estimate of the cost of remodeling without obligation of any kind. Simply telephone.

THE SPORTS MIRROR

Saturday Afternoon's Baseball Exhibition a Sorry Affair

* * *

Better Competition Should Be Provided for Visiting Clubs

* * *

France Again Reigns Supreme in World of Tennis

* * *

Ottawa Will Most Likely Retain Franchise in N.H.L.

AFTER witnessing Saturday afternoon's baseball game between the Eagles and the visiting Jack and Jill team of Tacoma, it is evident that the Senior Amateur League is making a big mistake in bringing outside clubs here and then putting in a weak team against them. In the evening the visitors opposed the Elks and were beaten 6 to 5 after one of the best games of the season. This just shows the difference.

* * *

Hower, the sad part of it all was the splendid pitching performance turned in by Earl Lewis, Vancouver hurler, for the Eagles in the afternoon. Imported to twirl for the local club he gave a fine exhibition but it was useless when the team behind him could do nothing but hoot the ball all over the lot. Why bring in a good pitcher and then field a ragged club behind him? The visitors were handed about eight or nine unearned runs. Lewis not only pitched a good game but contributed a home run to drive in two runs. What more could be expected of him?

* * *

League officials should know that a pitcher can't make a team. He has got to have some support. If the league cannot field a strong nine to play against these out-of-town teams, why arrange the games at all? Fans don't want to go and see scores like they did Saturday afternoon. It was not a ball game, except for the play of the visitors and the pitching display given by Lewis.

France still holds the Davis Cup, representing world supremacy in tennis. The Frenchmen rose on Sunday to turn back the British players in the deciding singles matches. As usual dynamic Henri Cochet was again the deciding factor in the victory. This little chap, who has suffered for the last few weeks with an injured shoulder, blasted Perry from the courts in the deciding match. However, France was given her toughest competition this year for some time and will have to look to her laurels even more closely for the next two or three years.

* * *

Many are wondering why the British team did not make a more determined effort to capture the doubles match on Saturday and obtain the lead two matches to one. If Perry had been partnered with Hughes, the Englishmen would have stood a good chance of winning. The excuse was made that Perry was being given a rest for his singles match with Cochet on Sunday. But it did not look as if Perry had much chance of beating Cochet. On the other hand, if England had taken the doubles she would have won the series on Austin's victory Sunday.

Lord Burghley, famous English hurdler, is experiencing a very busy time. He is now running for parliament and is keeping up his track work with a view to the Olympic games at Los Angeles next year. Standing as a candidate for Peterborough the young peer does two or three tent shows nightly, and has been the principal speaker at more than 200 political meetings, whist drives, concerts, and the like. Meanwhile, on the track he has run the hurdles in 15 1-10 seconds three times out of five races, which is excellent time.

The inclusion of Ottawa in the draft of the N.H.L. schedule recently submitted to the clubs does not signify that Ottawa will be in the league next season, though it seems probable at present that it will be a member of the organization. Different cities desiring hockey have sought to secure the Ottawa club, but the trouble has been that no new rinks are being built and the only really attractive spots have ben in N.H.L. cities, which are closed territory. The loss of Ottawa with its hockey tradition and background would be a tragedy of sport, but in these days of extensive overhead, few could complain if the team was shifted to more lucrative pastures.

JOKERS GAIN SERIES FINAL

Defeat The Times Softballers 10 to 4 in Semi-final Round of Knockout Cup

The final for the Victoria Super Service Knockout Softball Trophy will be played at Hampton Road on Thursday evening between the Jokers, league champions, and the Moose.

The Jokers reached the final round yesterday evening by handing The Times a 10 to 4 setback at the Hampton grounds. It was a close game until the seventh inning when the Joker sluggers got into action and with a couple of homers and a flock of other hard clouts put the skids to Sid Jenkins, who had pitched fairly effective ball for The Times up to that point. The Jokers scored six runs in the inning, breaking a four-four tie and finishing the scoring for the game.

Wright, Nunns and Rainville Score Pair of Victories

Leading Canadian Players Find Little Trouble Reaching Third in Men's Singles of National Tournament; Walter Martin, Regina, in Two Wins Without Loss of Match; All Seeded U.S. Stars Survive Opening Day's Play; Stiffer Competition Expected To-day; Men's and Women's and Mixed Doubles Also Scheduled To-day

Vancouver, July 28—Eight favorites who advanced rather easily through the first two rounds of play in the men's singles in the Canadian lawn tennis championship tourney which opened here yesterday should bump up against stiffer opposition in their third-round matches this afternoon. The eight favorites, all seeded players, were the only contestants to play two rounds, the others being confined to first-round play.

This morning, however, the rest of the draw will complete their second round matches in time to get into action with the seeded contestants in third-round play this afternoon. Women's singles to-day will be confined to the second round, with all first-round matches having been completed yesterday.

Numerous first-round mixed doubles as well as men's doubles and women's doubles are also scheduled for to-day.

Dr. Jack Wright, Montreal, seeded No. 1 player; Marcel Rainville, Montreal; John Murio, San Francisco; Gilbert Nunns, Toronto; Walter Martin, Regina; Henry Prusoff, Seattle; Mel Dranga, Seattle, and Oasie Ryall, Vancouver, were the eight seeded favorites to reach to-day's third round, each having won two matches yesterday.

GOOD MATCHES TO-DAY

To-day Wright clashes with H. Grant, Vancouver, or F. C. Casselman, Edmonton. Rainville will take the court against Henry Rosenberg, Tacoma, the Pacific Northwest junior titleholder, or T. J. Butt, Vancouver. Murio, the Hawaiian star, is drawn against H. R. Robertson or M. Milne, both of Vancouver. Nunns meets A. Hamilton or B. A. Rhodes, both of Vancouver, while Dranga clashes with Don Campbell, Victoria, or Laird Watt, Province of Quebec junior champion. Ryall will pit his skill against either Ken McIntyre or J. Ames, both of Vancouver. Martin will play either Bender Graham, San Francisco, or H. Kinlock, Calgary, while Prusoff is scheduled to meet S. Lefeille, San Francisco, or S. Yalord, Vancouver.

In the second round women's singles, the four seeded favorites also meet sterner opposition than that which confronted them in yesterday's first round. Edith Cross, San Francisco star, and seeded No. 1, meets Mrs. John Edwards, one of Victoria's leading players. Oliver Wade, the defending champion from Toronto, and seeded No. 2, clashes with Peggy Henry, Los Angeles.

Yesterday Rainville lost five games to Colin Milne, Vancouver, the British Columbia junior champion, in the first round, the easterner winning, 6-2, 6-3. He won his second round match from G. Hardie, Vancouver, 6-0, 6-0.

John Murio, the Pacific Northwest star, downed Gordon Verley, Vancouver youth, 6-3, 6-4, in the morning, and won by default from A. Ganlin, Voncouver, to reach the third round.

Nunns conquered A. Norrie, Vancouver, 6-1, 6-1, in his first contest, and forged into the third round with a 6-4, 6-1 victory over Milton Musgrave, Halifax.

Martin pulled through his two matches without losing a game, beating H. Wrinch, Vancouver, and H. Warkman, also of Vancouver.

PRUSOFF EASY WINNER

Prusoff was given a default this morning, and eliminated Bob Witt, a fellow townsman from Seattle, 6-0, 6-0, in the second round.

Dranga disposed of H. Rayment Victoria one-armed player, 610, 6-1, in the first round, and came back in the afternoon to down Bob Johnson, Portland, 6-2, 6-1.

Ryall defeated Dr. A. G. Rawlins, San Francisco, 6-2, 6-3, and B. A. Hanbury, Vancouver, 6-0, 6-4.

Other out-of-town players to advance in the men's singles were: John Edwards, Victoria; F. C. Casselman, Edmonton; W. Gyles, Winnipeg; Laird Watt, Montreal; Merle Moore, Tucson, Arizona; J. Haas, Washington, D.C., and Don Campbell, Victoria.

Quebec Footballers Seek Substitution For Game In Canada

Montreal, Que., July 28.—Amendment of the soccer rules to allow two substitutes at any time up to the last fifteen minutes of a match, a substituted player not to take furher part in the match, will be asked by the Province of Quebec Football Association when the Dominion Football Association holds its annual meeting at Regina in September.

In overtime in cup tie matches the substitution privilege would extend to the first half of the overtime period, the resolution passed at a meeting of the Quebec association to-night said. No player ordered off by the referee could be replaced.

McQuillan Knocks Out Pete Meyers

Portland, Ore., July 28.—Ray McQuillan, Portland negro, knocked out Pete Myers, San Francisco, in the seventh round of a scheduled ten-round fight here yesterday evening. They are middleweights.

SUN BEAU WILL GO AFTER CASH WINNING MARK

Willis Kilmer's Handicap Star Can Beat Gallant Fox's Record By Arlington Win

Will Carry Top Weight of 128 Pounds in $25,000 Added Classic; Fine Field

Chicago, July 28.—Sun Beau, Willis Sharp Kilmer's handicap star, must carry top weight of 128 pounds in the $25,000 added Arlington handicap Saturday when he attempts to surpass the money-winning record of Gallant Fox.

The assignment of the big load to Sun Beau probably will cause owners of lesser stars to make a try for the big purse, and it was indicated today that fifteen might start. If that many face the barrier the mile and a quarter race will be worth $38,850, with $31,850 to the winner. A victory for the Sun Beau would give the Kilmer six-year-old a total of $334,850, well beyond Gallant Fox's winnings of $328,165.

A FINE ENTRY

Mike Hall, which ran second to Sun Beau in the Arlino Cup last Saturday, will get in for 116 pounds, while Gallant Knight, which finished third in the race, will carry 120 pounds.

Plucky Play, winner of the Stars and Strikes handicap July 4 at Arlington, will carry only 109 pounds, and probably will have plenty of support in the wagering.

Lewis Mat Winner In Straight Falls

Stockton, Cal., July 28.—Ed. "Strangler" Lewis, claimant the world heavyweight wrestling title, yesterday evening threw Leo Paplani, Hollywood, in two falls, using his headlock hold. Lewis weighed 235 and Palano 210.

STAGE READY FOR REGATTA AT BRENTWOOD

Attractive Programme of Field and Water Sports Drawn Up For To-morrow

The stage is all set for the annual Brentwood Bay field day and water regatta which will be held tomorrow in the Anchorage grounds. An energetic committee has been working on plans for some time and to-day announced that everything is in readiness for the first event. All that is now needed is the co-operation of Old Sol, and judging by weather forecasts he will be shining his brightest.

In the evening there will be an entertainment by the children of the district at the Anchorage tea rooms. A programme has been drawn up and the tiny tots will give recitations, songs, dances, piano numbers and other specialties that should be both entertaining and popular. Following this, the annual regatta dance will be held at the Anchorage, when tombola prizes will be given away. Other novelties are also planned to take place at this event, which will come as a wind-up to the day's activities.

For the many interesting sports events arranged, the winners will receive handsome prizes. The prize committee spent yesterday in town picking up the wares that will be presented during the dance to the successful entrants.

Pittsburgh Comes To Life To Defeat Third Place Giant

Pirates After Being Cuffed Around National League Early Part of Season Start to Play Ball and Hum New York 8 to 6; Their Fifth Straight Victo Chicago Loses to Phillies; Athletics and Washing Both Win to Leave American League Unchang Yankees Split Twin Bill

Going nowhere in particular themselves, Jewel Ens's Pi burgh Pirates apparently have decided to assume their custom late season role—troublemakers for the rest of the Natic League.

Year after year the Pirates meekly submit to a general cuff around for the first two or three months of the season. T when they're so deeply submerged in the second division a p nant is next to impossible they turn on their tormentors, part larly those clubs that top them in the standings.

Just a month ago the Pirates had won twenty-three games and lost thirty-eight for an average of .377. Since then they have so far forgotten themselves as to win nineteen games out of twenty-nine for the quite respectable percentage of .655. They won their fourth straight victory yesterday, walloping the third place New York Giants 8 to 6, although outhit, 14 to 10. Remy Kremer, who couldn't win a ball game when he was giving six or seven hits, was credited with the victory although he was shellacked for thirteen hits in the seven innings he worked. Glenn Spencer finished up and stopped the Giants cold with one hit.

CUBS BEATEN

The second place Chicago Cubs fell to a point eight and one-half games removed from the St. Louis Cardinals when they accepted a 7 to 6 beating from the Phillies. Home runs by Buzz Arlett and Pinky Whitney, each with a man on the base, furnished the Phils with a lead the Cubs couldn't overcome.

Other National League clubs had a day off.

The American League situation remained unchanged as the Philadelphia Athletics nosed out the St. Louis Browns, 5 to 4, on Eric McNair's tenth inning home run. Rube Walberg chalked up his sixteenth victory of the year although he had little edge on George Blaeholder who struck out nine men.

The Washington Senators won a free-hitting game from Cleveland, 11 to 7, Joe Kuhel's two doubles and a single driving in three Senator runs.

Babe Ruth's twenty-seventh homer failed to save the New York Yanks from an 8 to 7 beating by the Chicago White Sox in the first game of a doubleheader but seventeen assorted singles, doubles and triples gave them the nightcap, 12 to 3. The Sox won the opener in the tenth when Lazzeri dropped Reynold's fly and allowed the deciding run to score. Ed. Wells gave the Sox only seven hits in the second game.

WEBB HITS WELL

The Boston Red Sox bunched seven hits for eight runs in the fourth inning to wallop Detroit, 13 to 4. Tom Bridges struck out the side in the first inning but the further the game went the less effective he became. Mark Koenig pitched the last two innings for the Tigers and blanked the Red Sox with two hits. Earl Webb's big bat again aided the Sox, his single and fortieth double driving in three runs.

Canadian Press

innipeg, July 28—For the third time in four years, New minster Royals are in the finals of the Dominion Football iation's championship. To-day they await naming of a nger to met them here Thursday and Saturday in the classic of Canadian soccer.

oyals toppled the last opposition in the west yesterday eve- concluding a two-game semi-final series with Winnipeg Manitoba tistlists, on the better side of a 6-to-4 score. Irish ored the famous British Columbia squad in the second con- 2 to 1, but were unable to make up for a 5-to-2 defeat West- er handed them in the first game.

TORONTO IN CLOSE WIN

An opponent for the defenders will be decided to-night at Fort William, where Toronto Scottish, eastern champions, take the field against Fort William Legion, strong favorites to whip the lake-head entry. Scottish eked out a 3 to 2 decision in the first series encounter yesterday evening, coming from behind after the Legion had taken a lead in the first half on two converted penalty kicks.

Winner of the head of the lakes series will clash with Westminster here Thursday evening and Saturday afternoon. The final will be a best-two-out-of-three series and, if a third game is necessary, it will be played Monday.

Helpless before the tireless assaults of the Manitoba champions, Westminster struggled through a thrilling first half with their three-goal margin intact. The mighty Royal defence wavered and wobbled, but it had not fallen. Irish cracked it wide open in the second session, drove in two goals, and with half the period remaining were battling to gain the tying counter.

TURNER COMES THROUGH

Nine Irishmen were in the Westminster end of the field, bombarding the Royal net with a varied assortment of shots, when crafty Dave Turner, black-haired British Columbia inside, broke away, dribbled the ball almost the length of the field, and paved the way for the goal that definitely eliminated Irish. Ernie Hammond, centre forward, lined in the shot that gave Bill Mogul no chance to save.

Failure of an erratic forward line to keep its shoes on the mark cost the Manitobans at least three goals—enough to tie up the series—in the first half. Sanford made sensational stops to keep Irish off the score sheet, but he was beaten easily by two combination plays. Butterworth drove the first one over the bar and miskicked the second, shooting wide. Salmon tossed away a third golden opportunity.

Except for an occasional sally, which served only to temporarily relieve a dangerous situation, Royals fought almost in the shadows of their goal-posts for most of the first period.

WINNIPEG SCORES

Schultz, Winnipeg outside right, scored three minutes after the rest session with a high drive from his wing. He came in fast to shoot in Coupland's crossfield pass with a "first-timer." Salmon missed by inches with a terrific shot a minute later, and Irish threw aside all football technique as they sought another counter.

At the twenty-five-minute mark, Jennings joined up with Butterworth and Salmon in a short-passing bout that separated the Royals' backs. Jennings swung a ground shot into the corner, placing the Irishmen only a goal behind on the series score. Salmon and Coupland each fired from close range, but Sanford blocked both shots.

Turner and Hammond broke up the grueling battle fifteen minutes from the end with their "break-away" goal. It served to steady Royals, who easily staved off the Winnipeggers for the balance of time.

Line-ups:

Winnipeg Irish—Mogul; Hastie, Lennon; Brooly, Matthews, Dudar; Schultz, Jennings, Butterworth, Salmon, Coupland.

Referee—Bill Hetherington, Regina.

Fort William, July 28.—Toronto Scottish, holders of the Eastern Canada soccer title, grasped a one-goal lead yesterday evening in the opener of their two-game battle with Fort William for the right to enter the Canadian final, winning the game 3 to 2.

On the play, Fort William were value for a win but injuries and a momentary relapse in their defence in the dying moments of the second hal enabled Scottish to come from behind and march on to victory. Scottish outplayed the lakeheaders with their passing game, but Forts evened the count by their aggressiveness and technique. More than 1,000 spectators saw the contest.

Penalty kicks by McLaughlin and R. Murray accounted for the Legion's margin in the first half. McIntyre, centre forward, netted for the Scottish. In the second half, when Simpson, Bob Murray, McKays and G. Byars were hurt, Scottish managed to penetrate the weakened Fort defence. Dawson headed in the equalizer and Cairns shot the goal that sent the Scots out in front with a one-goal margin to take into to-night's final game.

Line-ups:

Toronto—Halliwell; Connors and McDonald; Manson, Somers and Weir; Dawson, Cairns, McIntyre, Rossiter, F musson.

Fort William—Broughton; Simpson and Murray; Paterson, McKay and McLaughlin; Maguire, Murray, Bain, Byars and McMillan.

Referee—R. Dykes.

Duncan Defeats Tillicums After Wild Ball Game

Duncan, July 28.—Thirty-one hits and fifteen errors featured a wild game in which Duncan defeated the Victoria Tillicums at the ball park here Sunday by a score of 20 to 10. It was Duncan's eighth successive victory. The home team's infield was badly disorganized owing to the absence of four regulars from the line-up, and a number of players were playing in strange positions. Robinson and Stickney did the pitching for the visitors. The former allowed seventeen runs and fifteen hits in four innings, and the latter four hits and three runs in four innings. McInnes and Haines were on the mound for Duncan, and ten hits were registered off their delivery. Duncan had six errors and the Tillicums nine.

DEMPSEY CALLS OFF RENO SHOW

Reno, Nev., July 28.—Jack Dempsey announced here yesterday that because of failure to make a suitable match, he would not stage a fight here on Labor Day.

Leonard Sachs, Dempsey's manager, said the former heavyweight champion tried first to get Jack Sharkey and whoever the ex-gob would be willing to meet.

Then he sought to match Jack Thompson, welterweight champion, with Young Corbett, California, but the titleholder demanded what Dempsey considered an exorbitant sum.

Jimmy McLarnin also was considered for a match with either Corbett or Tony Canzoneri, but he is to meet Billy Petrolle in New York the latter part of August and was not available.

Sons Score First Win Over Elks In Pitcher's Battle

Jack Bacon Drives Home Winning Run in Last Half of Ninth to Give Canadians 4 to 3 Victory Over Senior Amateur Baseball League Leaders; Holden and Webster Turn in Fine Pitching Performances; Holman and Holden Hit Home Runs for Sons

In a real pitcher's duel between Leo Holden and "Doc" Webster, the Sons of Canada nosed out of the first place Elks, 4 to 3 in the Victoria Senior Amateur Baseball League clash at the Royal Athletic Park yesterday evening. The two leading clubs dished up an interesting brand of baseball, with the climax coming in the last half of the ninth when Jack Bacon singled with two away to drive in Haines with the winning run.

The Sons scored their other three runs on two home runs by Bill Holman and Holden. The latter was the real star of the game, turning in a fine pitching performance for the Canadians. He got himself into several tight holes, but usually managed to pitch himself out of trouble. He held the Elks to five scattered hits and struck out ten. Webster was also in rare form allowing only seven hits, while he whiffed five. Holden gave out four bases on balls, against Webster's one.

This was the first victory the Sons have scored over the Elks this year.

ELKS TAKE LEAD

After a scoreless first inning the Elks obtained a one run lead in the second. Cummins reached first on Campbell's error and MacKenzie walked. Belcher took three swings and returned to the beach. Bowden's single to right field scored Cummins. The Sons came back with two runs in their half of the frame. Bacon grounded to Webster, and was safe on Belcher's error. The Elks protested the decision, claiming the first sacker had held the ball long enough to make the put-out. Bacon stole second and scored on Holman's home run over the centre field fence.

The fifth inning saw the Elks gain a one run lead again. Webster opened the inning with a walk. Dunn also looked them over carefully to get a free passage to first. Minnis sacrificed to advance both runners. Forbes came through with a timely single over second base to score both runners.

Holden's home run over the centre field wall tied up the score in the eighth. The Elks were retired in order in the ninth, Holden striking out Bowden and Webster and forcing Dunn to pop up.

Haines opened the Sons' half of the ninth with a stinging single to centre field. Craig bunted, and both runners were safe when Webster tried to catch Haines at second. Doherty's sacrifice advanced both runners. Colin Campbell grounded out Webster to Belcher. Bacon then came through with his single to centre field to drive home the winning run.

Larry Gains Puts Swiss Champ Away In Opening Round

Manchester, England, July 28.—Larry Gains, Toronto, colored boxer, who holds the Canadian heavyweight title, knocked out Hans Bauman, champion of Switzerland, in the first round of a scheduled fifteen-round bout here yesterday evening.

The bout lasted only two and one-half minutes but that was time enough for Gains to inflict considerable punishment on the Swiss heavyweight, who sustained, among other injuries, a broken nose.

Discovering the weakness of Bauman's defence at the outset, Gains knocked him down for a count of six. As soon as Bauman got to his feet he was floored for the full count amid a volley of rights and lefts to the head and body.

Ernie Schaff Is Given Bout With Victoria Campolo

New York, July 28.—Ernie Schaaf, "myster man" of the heavyweight list, will get a "shot" at bigger game. The Boston youngster has been matched by promoter Jimmy Johnston for a fifteen-round bout with the big Argentine clouter, Victorio Campolo, at Eberts Field, Brooklyn, August 26.

Schaaf, in whose contract Jack Sharkey owns a half interest, has been coming along in the last few months at a pace alarming to other heavyweight contenders. He has run up a string of four successive knockout victories, two of them over the portly Bostonian, Jimmy Maloney.

Both Schaaf and Campolo have been beaten in the last few months by the left jab artist from Philadelphia, Tommy Loughran, but before that Schaaf outpointed Loughran twice.

Kid Berg Takes Call From Griffin

Newark, N.J., July 28.—Jack (Kid) Berg, England, outpointed Phil Griffin, Newark lightweight, in a ten-round bout here yesterday evening.

INEXPENSIVE SATISFYING

BOARD BACKS MOVE TO BAN WALKIES HERE

Requests Council to Pass By-law Prohibiting All Similar Contests

Mayor Opposes Idea Because of Vancouver Council's Tangle With Walkies

Classing walkathons and contests of a similar nature as "undesirable," the Victoria Police Commission yesterday afternoon decided to recommend to the City Council the enactment of a by-law prohibiting the contests "from continuing and in future." The council, in session this afternoon is considering the recommendation.

Mayor Anscomb was opposed to the move made by the police board.

"I am opposed because I don't think the council should get mixed up with it," he said. "The Vancouver council is in a deplorable condition over walkathons."

HAVE POWER TO PASS

The meeting was called at the instance of Commissioner Mrs. Dorothy North especially to consider the question of walkathons. She put forth the following motion:

"Resolved that walkathon contests and contests of a similar nature are undesirable, and that the Municipal Council of the City of Victoria be requested to pass a by-law, under the powers contained in sub-section 21 of section 54 of the Municipal Act, prohibiting such contests from continuing and in the future; and further requested that as the matter is, in the opinion of this board, urgent to act upon this recommendation as rapidly as possible."

It was explained the section in question gave the council power to regulate public exhibitions and shows.

After the mayor had expressed his opposition, Commissioner Andrew McGavin said he could see no harm in seconding the motion as the question would be one for the City Council to deal with, so the motion passed with the mayor voting in the negative.

STABILIZATION OF CURRENCY

Will Be Discussed at Pacific Foreign Trade Council Convention

Oakland, July 28.—Currency stabilization as a factor in the development of international trade will be given a prominent place on the programme of the eighth annual convention of the Pacific Foreign Trade Council, to be held at Oakland, Cal., September 17 and 18 next.

This was disclosed Saturday by A. F. Haines of Seattle, president of the Pacific Foreign Trade Council and president and general manager of the American Mail line. With the stabilization of silver, said Haines, a trying uncertainty will be replaced by rehabilitation of trade, particularly in the Far East.

"The importer will be able to plead his case at the convention and recount the handicaps of his trade. He will talk of customs barrier, fluctuating tariffs, unstabilized conditions. He furnishes raw materials to build up our industries and return cargoes for our vessels in spite of handicaps and prejudice against imports.

"Exporters will have opportunity to consult with others in the same business concernnig new markets and the struggle to hold present ones. Due attention will be given to the matter of competition abroad and how to meet it."

GOVERNMENT PICKS CAMPS FOR RELIEF

To Take Care of Some Unemployed Immediately on Provisional Plan

Sites for construction camps on the main highways of the province at which unemployed, in exchange for a full eight hours' work, five and one-half days a week, will be given food, shelter and a moderate subsistence allowance, until the full relief scheme is worked out, have been chosen by the provincial government, it was announced yesterday.

The camps will eventually form a chain of highway construction posts to be used in the government's big road programme as a relief measure.

Those already decided upon include sites near Hope, at one end of the Hope-Princeton Highway, on which route a construction camp already exists at the Princeton portion of the way; at Blue River and another point on the North Thompson Highway, two camps; at Cloyah Bay, on the Prince Rupert route; near Crow's Nest, on the Crow's Nest Highway; two camps on the Prince George-Yellowhead route, and one each on the Kuskanook-Grey Creek Highway and the Nelson-Balfour route. Vancouver Island camps have not been selected yet but assurance was given the Island unemployed will be considered.

SUBSISTENCE ALLOWANCE

All transients employed in the preparation of these camps will be given a subsistence allowance of twenty-five cents an hour for those without dependents and thirty-five cents an hour for those with dependents in addition to food and shelter providing they give a full day's work.

This scale, it is pointed out, is only a provisional one while the camps are under construction, working out at $2 per day or $11 per week for men without dependents and $2.80 per day or $15.40 per week for those with dependents. The sum of $1 per day will be assessed both classes for board.

NOT A WAGE

This allowance is by no means to be considered a wage, it is stated. The government's experience of last year has shown it will be impossible to pay $4 per day for relief work so this has been replaced by food and shelter with the subsistence allowance.

Registration of unemployed who will be placed in the camps was in full swing to-day. It has been pointed out that only men with certificates will receive work and there will be very little direct relief except in the cases of men obviously unfitted to work.

ADMIRAL RETIRES

Reuter's Special to The Victoria Times

London—Much imoportant and spectacular work was performed during the war by Admiral Sir Roger Keyes, whose active career in the navy has closed with his retirement from the post of commander-in-chief at Portsmouth, at the age of fifty-eight. He distinguished himself as a young lieutenant in the Boxer rebellion of 1900. He was commodore of submarines at the otubreak of the war, and commanded these craft at the Battle of Heligoland, and the Cuxhaven sea and air raid.

More clever work was done at the Dardanelles as chief of staff, where his resource won for him the C.M.G. He took command of the Dover Patrol, leading the "Men who held the Straits," in January, 1918, and it was then that he perfected his plans for Zeebrugge and Ostend. On the eve of St George's Day, 1918, he attacked the Flanders coast and achieved one of the most daring of naval exploits and "the only successful blockship operation in history." A gallant part was played by H.M.S. Vindictive, fitted as a blockship and sunk between the piers. For that Sir Roger was made K.C.B., and in war honors list he was created a onet and awarded a grant of £10

Hard Work, Exposure To Cold, Cause Temporary 'Albuminuria'

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

The term "albuminuria" does not describe a disease but a symptom. Whenever the kidneys fail to function properly so far as relates to the elimination of protein substances, some protein passes out of the blood through the kidneys and the excreted fluids. Under normal conditions protein does not appear, only water, salts and various other waste products being found in the fluid. There are, of course, conditions in which the body tissues in the urinary tract itself are damaged and the by-products of these tissues which might appear in the fluid are also responsible for the appearance of "albumin."

In some cases exceedingly hard muscular work, exposure to severe cold, or overeating of meats may temporarily result in the appearance of some albumin, but these conditions are rare and not permanent.

The presence of albumin is detected by a simple chemical test. The simplest test is to allow the fluid to come into contact with concentrated nitric acid. Under these circumstances a white ring forms between the fluid and the acid in case any albumin is present. There are occasions, particularly in cold weather, when the excreted fluids seem cloudy, under which circumstances the suspicion may arise that albumin is present. In such cases the warming of the fluid or the addition of a little acetic acid will cause the development of a clear appearance. This clearance does not occur if the cloudiness is due to the presence of albumin.

The presence of albumin in the urine, or so-called albuminuria, is usually due to an inflammation of the kidney. This inflammation of the kidneys is called nephritis. It may be present in an acute form, due to the action of some poison or through by-products of fever or to the toxins of bacteria. It may also be present due to a gradual breaking down of the kidney, in which case it is called chronic nephritis or, as is commonly known, Bright's disease. The disease was named for Bright, an English physician, who first classified it and described its symptoms.

In the case of acute inflammation of the kidney, the control of the fever, the stopping of the drugs, the elimination of the poisons of the bacteria that cause the irritation will bring about healing, provided too much damage has not already been done to the kidney. If, however, the damage has been too great, if the kidney has lost in its functions, thereafter the person suffers from chronic kidney disease. Under such circumstances, great care is necessary in the diet, in exercise, in the control of life generally in order to prevent further damage and in order not to overtax the weakened tissues.

Oil is being made from coal by a British inventor. He has erected a plant to handle 1,000 tons of coal a week.

BARNARDO HOMES DIRECT ENERGY OF BOY WAIFS

Harness Vitality to Useful Objective, Making Lads Assets, Speaker Tells Club

Kiwanians Hear Interesting Sidelights on Famous Charitable Institution

Drawing an analogy between the work of the Dr. Barnardo Homes and the harnessing of power in a huge waterfall, G. H. Evans, traveling representative of the renowned British charitable institution, explained to members of the Kiwanis Club at luncheon to-day how the energy of under-privileged boys was directed along useful channels, instead of being wasted. The comparison was made in an appeal to the clubmen for support in the drive now being conducted to raise funds to carry on the activities of the institution.

The speaker laid stress on the fact that 98 per cent of the Barnardo boys, who had been sent to Canada, were great assets to the land.

Through helping the young people could find the elixir of youth, Mr. Evans said.

He dealt with the practical methods used in the homes in developing spirit in boys.

ENERGY DIRECTED

He likened the lives of waifs to the harnessing of the power of Niagara. Where both had previously wasted much energy, they were now brought under control and were being directed along constructive lines.

GREAT ASSET

The value of the 40,000 boys who had been sent out to Canada was stressed by Mr. Evans, who declared that 98 per cent of them were assets to the Dominion.

He compared the work of the institute to that of the hairspring in a deposit vault. There were immense riches in the boy which could be reached through the delicate mechanism of the soul, he said.

Incidents in the careers of some of the Barnardo boys were touched upon by Mr. Evans in conclusion.

In moving a vote of thanks, J. Trotter spoke of personal experience with similar work and expressed the club's willingness to co-operate in the campaign.

Two vocal solos were rendered by Fred Wright.

MAINLAND HAS BIG HAY CROP

The markets branch of the Provincial Department of Agriculture reports that the hay crop on the Lower Mainland district is one of the heaviest on record. It is estimated that about 50 per cent of the crop is already under cover and if the weather holds until the end of the month the crop will be practically all in.

Yields of three and four tons to the acre are common and a number of men are experiencing difficulty to find space for the crop.

Central Creameries Limited last week shipped 500 boxes of creamery butter as a trial shipment to the Old Country through Vancouver and the Panama Canal. Canadian butter has been shipped from eastern Canada during the last few months, but this is the first shipment from western Canada, and, if the butter proves satisfactory many shipments will probably follow.

DAIRY COWS IN GOOD DEMAND

Lamb Prices Declining; Meat Consumption Falls

Livestock marketing conditions in British Columbia, as reflected by prices in Vancouver markets, were slow last week, although the demand for fresh dairy cows was good, according to the markets branch of the Provincial Department of Agriculture.

The dairy cow market showed considerable activity. Quite a number of springer and fresh cows are changing hands at between $80 and $120 each, depending on quality.

Lambs continue to arrive in abundance, and prices are steadily declining. Values were off a cent from the previous week and prospects are uncertain. Heavy wethers and mutton are particularly draggy. Breeding ewes are arriving in small numbers and the market very limited.

Cattle values held steady throughout the week, but with light turnover. The prevailing hot weather had its usual effect on slowing up meat consumption, and making all markets draggy. Heavy stuff of all kinds has been especially slow moving and particularly cows.

Hog values have been holding more or less steady, but for the increasing proportion of heavy hogs, which have a depressing effect on the market. A strong demand still prevails for feeders of good quality.

MAY REQUIRE MORE POTASH

Dominion Fertilizer Act May Be Amended to Increase Guarantee

A recommendation that the potash content in mixed fertilizer be increased from the present guaranteed minimum of 2 per cent to at least 4 per cent is now before the fertilizer division of the Dominion Department of Agriculture for consideration.

The fertilizer trade in recent years has shown some interesting trends, particularly in the changes that have taken place in the formulae of mixed fertilizers. A few years ago the average mixed fertilizer on the market contained a minimum percentage of nitrogen with a maximum percentage of phosphoric acid, and on potash. To-day the ratio for these three plant foods is becoming better equalized, and particularly with regard to the potash content.

A few years ago there were numerous brands of fertilizer containing only about 2 per cent of potash, whereas to-day few if any contain so small an amount, 6, 8 and 10 per cent now being the more usual guarantees.

The Fertilizer Act at present requires a minimum of 2 per cent of potash in a mixed fertilizer for guarantee. Authorities on fertilizer have expressed the view that this minimum is not of sufficient value to a crop to warrant its guarantee and further, that the minimum should be raised to at least 4 per cent.

Directors of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau this afternoon received reports upon the operation of the Puget Sounders and British Columbians Incorporated, the co-operative community advertising agency of the northwest Pacific cities, which showed that $41,910 had been expended in advertising, of which $31,501 was for space in newspapers and magazines. A booklet had cost $3,200 and $975 had been invested in an electric sign.

The replies received had numbered 10,441, of which 5,631 were traced directly to the coastwise advertising display carries in The Saturday Evening Post during March. The result of the California campaign had been most satisfactory, there having been 22,620 Californian cars recorded as visiting the northwest to date, within one hundred of the mark attained last year.

C. P. Hill, recently returned from the Kootenay district, said traffic across the international boundary at interior points was ten times that recorded in previous years, as a result of improved highways.

Tern And Puffin Leading At Noon In Dinghy Race

The dinghy marathon, under the auspices of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club, got away to a good start at 8.30 o'clock this morning from the yacht club moorings in Cadboro Bay, and at noon Humphrey Golby in the Tern was leading and "Ginger" Hotham in his Puffin was second off the lime kiln on San Juan Island, according to the first report of the race turned in by Capt. Thomas Golby, official reporter. At this point H. Gann's new dinghy, "Kismet, was third and the Murrelet, John Hutchison, fourth.

The course from Cadboro Bay to Julia Island, in Montagu Harbor, where the race will finish, is about twenty-eight and a half nautical miles. PLANT CULTURE AMAZES VISITOR

Clarence Elliott, Noted British Horticulturist, Inspects Gardens Here

Clarence Elliott, F.R.H.S., distinguished British horticulturist and recognized as the leading authority in the world on rock and alpine plants, is spending two weeks on Vancouver Island to collect rare plants and round out his inspection of North American gardens.

After being shown many of the fine gardens of Victoria and some of the plant nurseries near the city by Norman Rant, F.R.H.S., local horticulturist, Mr. Elliott expressed amazement at the development of plant culture here. He said he had seldom seen gardening developed on such a high plane outside England.

After inspecting one of the commercial nurseries which specializes in rock and alpine plants, Mr. Elliott declared that no collection of these plants in such variety existed anywhere in the British Empire but in England itself. Only one nursery in New Zealand approached this collection in magnitude and even it did not contain the variety of plants to be found here. No collection in the United States could compare with it, he said.

"It is most remarkable that we should find these things at the other side of the world," Mr. Elliott remarked. "It is a complete eye-opener to me and I am sure gardeners in England as a whole have no idea what progress the hobby has made here."

Mr. Elliott, who has lectured before garden clubs all over the United States, will speak on his experience while plant collecting in the Andes, under the auspices of the Vancouver Island Horticultural Association in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium on Friday, August 7.

Dragon's Visit To Ladysmith Ended Monday

Ladysmith, July 28.—H.M.S. Dragon left Ladysmith yesterday morning for Vancouver. On Friday evening a dance was held in honor of the ship's company, under the auspices of the Army and Navy Veterans, and on Saturday another dance was held by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Ladysmith General Hospital. The ship's orchestra supplied the music, and both dances were attended by a large crowd.

On Saturday afternoon the officers and sailors entertained many visitors on board the warship. Two hours were set aside for children, who had a wonderful time.

On Saturday evening a football game was played between Ladysmith and the Dragon eleven. The locals were no match for the visitors, who won 5 to 0. Later in the evening a smoker was held in the army and navy quarters.

On Sunday morning the sailors, headed by the ship's band, paraded up Methuen Street and along First Avenue to the war memorial, where divine service was held, the address being given by Rev. G. Stevenson. The placing of a wreath on the memorial was followed by the sounding of the "Last Post."

CHINA PREPARES FOR GOOD ROADS MEETING SOON

Motor Cars Make Tremendous Strides, Says Passenger Aboard President Cleveland

Tells Interesting Story of Immigration Movement Into Manchuria

China, intensely earnest about developing her means of communication between one town and another, is now calling all her engineering talent together and will hold a Good Roads Exhibition in Shanghai in September and October next. This interesting announcement was made in Victoria this morning by A. H. Redfield, representative of the Ford Motor Company in Shanghai who passed through Victoria aboard the American Mail liner President Cleveland from the Orient. Motoring is making tremendous strides in China, Mr. Redfield said, and now even the country roads in the most primitive parts are being used by North American models.

The coming Good Roads Convention is arousing much interest in China. It will be held under the auspices of the National Good Roads Association of China. National ministers, provincial and municipal officers, technical advisers and highway commissioners from every part of the republic will meet to confer, they hope, with North American highway experts, whom they believe to be the best in the world. The Chinese authorities, Mr. Redfield said, expect that the exhibition will display all the various types of road-building machinery and similar equipment used in the building of the fine highways in Canada and the United States.

MOVEMENT CEASES

Mr. Redfield mentioned the movement of the nomads in China. The tremendously colorful pageantry of the tribes swarming into Manchuria has temporarily run its course, he said. The movement has now dwindled to a mere trickle of a few tens of thousands. Several years ago immigrants from Kiangsu, Chekiang and Hupeh were moving northward in ragged armies along the sunken roads and over the vast plains of China. Fortunate ones rode the cow-catchers of engines or in rude box cars. Some even plugged the hull holes of discarded junks, patched up old sails and took the sea route northward to their "promised land" round the headlands of the China coast. Reaching Manchuria they became lost among the vast fertile plains, settling side by side with native Manchurians, Mongols and Russians from the north and west. Just why this movement has stopped, Mr. Redfield said, no one is able to say. Probably it will be resumed within the next few years. The present immigration he said, is confined mainly to the rural districts along the Chinese Eastern Railway.

NANAIMO ASKS $50,000 RELIEF

Will Request Provincial Government to Earmark Sum For Works Near City

City Council Abandons Plan For Farmers' Market; Produce Found Insufficient

Special to The Times

Nanaimo, July 28.—At the city council meeting yesterday evening the unemployment committee reported 662 men unemployed in Nanaimo and district. Alderman Inkster stated relief work on the pipe line was practically completed, and only few men would be employed. Alderman Dixon said there was $500,000 for relief, and Nanaimo should have $50,000. The committee will take the matter up with the provincial government.

C. H. Dickie, M.P., wrote stating the Dominion government would beautify the lots behind the post office.

By-law No. 492 was finally read and adopted. The sum of $1,071.50 was reported to have been spent on streets, with $307.75 on waterworks.

The librarian was instructed to make all purchases for the library in Nanaimo.

Alderman Dixon complained that local men were receiving unfair treatment at the dam. He asserted Vancouver workmen were being permitted to work ten hours daily and local men only nineteen hours in three days. The matter will be investigated.

The industries committee reported that the amount of produce pledged by farmers would not warrant any immediat expenditure by the city council to procure a building and operate a farmers' market. The committee recommended that a curb market be operated, to ascertain if sufficient produce can be secured to carry out the larger scheme. The Kiwanis Club, which instituted the movement, was thanked by the council for its interest.

NURSES OF RESTHAVEN GRADUATED

Seating capacity in the tastily decorated lounge and adjoining hall of the Rest Haven Hospital and Sanitarium was taxed to the limit on Monday evening when two hundred and fifty persons, assembled for the purpose of witnessing the graduation exercises, on which occasion six student nurses were presented with diplomas. Pastor H. A. Lukens, president of the British Columbia Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, delivered the commencement address.

Presentation of diplomas and pins was made by Dr. Samuel Leiske and Mrs. C. F. Courser, R.N., musical selections being rendered by Miss Audrey Koehn, William Easton, Frank Spooner and Maldwin Humphreys. The graduating class, who were the recipients of many beautiful gifts from patients and friends, consisted of Helen Ruth Fisher, Lanetta Shearer, May Diebel, Kellina Rabuka, Netile Neufeld and Samuel O. Blackwell.

TRUSTED OLD JANITOR MUST GO TO JAIL

Barbers Do Detective Work to Discover Where Missing Money Went

How two barbers turned sleuths when they discovered money continually disappearing from a drawer in their shop and discovered the thief who turned out to be a trusted Chinese janitor, employed for more than thirty years by several business firms here, was related in City Police Court this morning.

Lou Sing, the sixty-year-old janitor, was convicted of using a false key to steal money from a receptacle and was sentenced by Acting Magistrate C. J. Prior to six months' imprisonment.

Several prominent professional and business men came to Lou's aid and testified to his good character, including Carew Martin, barrister, whose father for many years employed Chinese as a gardener; E. F. Marshall, Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway agent, and Harry Clark of the Great Northern Railway. He had served these firms faithfully for twenty years, witnesses said.

CAUGHT IN ACT

S. Temple and George Mann of the Capital Barber Shop described how they caught Lou in the act of taking two twenty-five-cent pieces from a purse in their shop early last Friday morning.

"We went to the shop about 4.20 o'clock in the morning, entering the place and locking it behind us," Mr. Temple said. "Then we took off our shoes and waited."

"About 7.10 o'clock the outer doors opened and the accused came in. He hung up his coat, put it on a hook, then turned on the light over my chair. He inserted a key in the drawer of my bench and opened it. He took out the purse and took two quarters in his left hand while searching the purse with his right."

"Then we walked out and asked him what he was doing. He said he was getting a little change and I took the purse and the money away from him."

After that the police were called.

OFFERED TO REPAY

When Constable Wesley Harper arrived the defendant was telling Mr. Temple he would make good at the rate of $5 per month for a total of $30.35 which had been missed from the shop.

"'I no go jail. I pay fi' dollar one month till pay 'em all,' he said," Constable Harper testified.

W. C. Moresby, K.C., defence counsel, did not call any evidence but put Mr. Carew, Mr. Marshall and Mr. Clark on the stand to testify to the good character of the accused, who, he said, had been in Victoria for thirty-nine years. Mr. Moresby asked for a fine or suspended sentence.

Passing sentence the magistrate said the offence was a serious one under the code with a maximum of fourteen years' imprisonment. It hardly justified a fine and he thought a term of six months would meet the case in view of the evidence of character given.

Public Invited To Join Club In Trip To-morrow

During the day a sports programme will be staged and a softball game will be played. Arrangements have also been made for golf.

Dinner will be served in a large golf clubhouse, where all members of the different groups will be able to mingle with one another.

The Victorians will leave for this city at 8 o'clock.

Percy Watson, president of the local club, will lead the delegation.

To-day's Grain Markets

WINNIPEG

(By Logan & Bryan)

Winnipeg, July 28.—Wheat: The wheat market was erratic to-day, October future having a price range of 3½ cents, with July and December somewhat lower, the market opening about ½ lower, with some scattered liquidation going on and some locals pressing the short side. Finally the market sank to a level where crop loss selling was reached and then broke rapidly, with prices on the extreme dip being 1⅞ to 2¼ under the close last night.

On the scale down there was excellent buying on a large scale by one well-known Chicago house with offices here, while seaboard houses were also good buyers. It was reported that export sales worked on the break with a little overnight totaled 500,000 bushels. This combined buying finally took the slack out of the market, which reacted quickly, and early sellers were forced to cover. While the full upturn was not held, the market acted stubborn against profit taking by longs.

It was the most active market seen in many days. There was very little going on in the cash market. Numerous showers were received in the west the past twenty-four hours, but very little moisture was received in southern areas of Saskatchewan or Alberta.

There are many in the trade who believe that the low marks established to-day were the bottom for some time and that wheat can now be bought with safety on all recessions.

BONUS DRIVES WHEAT PRICES TO NEW DEPTHS

Grasshoppers, Rust and Dry Weather Fail to Halt Renewed Market Slump

Winnipeg, July 28.—Wheat prices in Winnipeg and Chicago to-day again dropped to more new record lows.

Corn in Chicago and other coarse grains in both markets also broke to new lows.

The five-cent a bushel bounty on export wheat from Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, passed by the House of Commons at Ottawa, has resulted in putting Canadian wheat prices that much lower, contrary to expectations of politicians.

The way the bounty is working out is that export sellers are enabled to offer wheat by that much lower, thus breaking the price on the home market.

Reports to-day of dry weather damage, a scourge of grasshoppers covering three states, and advices by Dr. Hanna of the Rust Research Laboratory of black rust in southern Manitoba, failed to put the market up.

CHICAGO

(By Logan & Bryan)

Chicago, July 28.—Wheat: September and December sold off to new lows this morning but had a fair rally in the late trade. There was buying against bids, scattered short covering and some support on resting orders. Northwest news was extremely bullish, but the forecast for showers and cooler conditions minimized the effect of the reports.

A leading Winnipeg house estimated western Canada wheat condition at 55 against 57 last week and a local crop expert estimates North Dakota at 45,000,000 to 48,000,000 bushels, with a big reduction in South Dakota from the early promise. World stocks showed an increase of 4,377,000 bushels according to Bradstreet's making the total 384,000,000 bushels vs. 305,000,000 a year ago.

Local receipts 432 cars estimated, with primary receipts 3,082,000 vs. 4,145,000 bushels a year ago. Export trade was light, but there was little change in the spot basis at the gulf. Domestic trade in flour continues of fair proportions. We are of the opinion that wheat is under-priced at this level and later developments of the season will make for a much stronger market.

Corn—Prices for September and December sold at new lows for the season, the prospect for a break in the hot weather with possible showers taking the edge off the demand early. Deliveries of corn were 347,000 bushels to-day. Cash sales 61,000 bushels with country bookings 56,000 bushels. Track deliveries will be regular the next three days. The market will continue to be a weather affair.

Oats—Made new lows for all months but showed fair rallies. The cash demand was moderate with sales of 22,000 bushels. Crop news is bullish and some sections are reporting disappointing yields owing to hot weather damage. Deliveries 11,000 bushels.

Rye—Bullish news is not lacking in rye, the northwest outlook being very poor. However, the market is not likely to show much initiative pending a turn for the better in other grains, when rye should show a good response to any buying.

C.P.R. Inclined to Ease a Little, With Bank Stocks Softer

Montreal, July 28.—Outstanding as a feature to-day was a further sharp run-up in Beauharnois Power bonds, which closed at 78 bid, a gain of about ten points this week.

The Beauharnois shares did not get anywhere, fluctuating between 5 and 4½.

Stock markets as a whole were quiet in the extreme to-day and the Canadian lists were no exception to this rule.

Brazilian Traction was firmer, following strong cables from London, and prices closed around 19¾.

In other departments of the list, little happened that might be construed as interesting.

Oil stocks were mainly steady, with Imperial at times giving indication that it was still under accumulation.

Brewery and distillers group was dull.

Canadian Pacific was inclined to ease a little.

The bank stocks were softer.

Toronto, July 28 (Canadian Press).—Toronto Stock Exchange market drifted through the afternoon session without change of front. There was no improvement in turnover, and closing prices closely approximated those of last night.

Nickel left off unchanged at 13½. Noranda, on one transaction, was down ¼ point. Brazilian was up about ½ point at 19⅝. C.P.R. at 25½ was a shade higher, while Dominion Stores, Canners "B," Bell Telephone, Ford of Canada were firm and unchanged. Loblaw "A" eased ½ point.

Only a small volume changed hands in the oil group. International Petroleum closed at 12, Imperial Oil at 12⅛, British American Oil at 10½. Walkers was unchanged at 5½ and Canada Bud down ¼ at 12.

COPPER DIPS TO RECORD LOW

New York, July 28.—Small lots of copper to-day were reported available in the domestic market at 7⅝ cents, a new low record price.

The metal apparently was speculative copper, as producers continue to quote 8 cents a pound, delivered, for their metal and custom smelters are holding at 7⅝ cents in the domestic market.

An increase in imports of unmanufactured copper by the United States during June was reported by the American Bureau of Metal Statistics. Last month's imports amounted to 21,055 metric tons, compared with 16,159 tons in May and 16,326 tons in April.

Exports of refined copper from the United States increased slightly to 16,637 tons in June, compared with 15,709 tons in May. The total for April was 16,919 tons.

IMMEDIATE ACTION FOLLOWS NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING

Speed is vital to modern business and the daily newspaper---vibrant with speed and action---is the swiftest and most flexible medium to deal with immediate problems in Canadian marketing.

Retailer, distributor and manufacturer alike have proved the superior efficacy of daily newspapers as sales instruments. Their abiding preference for daily newspaper advertising is based on years of experience.

The daily newspaper deals with things of to-day. It records what is going on now. Attuned to the modern tempo, it is the master expression---in the advertising field---of the twentieth century demand for despatch, action and results.

Every day it carries to its readers the pulsating news of the world of people and the latest buying news of the world of merchandise.

Daily newspapers create more than desire for a product. They provide the necessary impetus to translate desire into actual purchase.

The daily newspaper is an immediate sales stimulant. It breeds instant action on the part of the buyer. Newspaper advertising sends customers to the retail counter NOW---TO-DAY.

The Melody Girl

By RUTH DEWEY GROVES

(Copyright, 1931, by NEA Service)

"That's selfish," Irene declared. "What would happen if you didn't—if you couldn't—make good? You've got to be honest, Tommy. You wouldn't try to sell anything you didn't know was good, would you? Of course you wouldn't," she answered herself. "Then how can you try to sell me a future that you're not sure of? Don't you see it isn't fair to me?"

Tommy had to admit the truth of her argument, forgetting that a moment before she had said she knew he would make good. Perhaps he was confused with the sudden drop of his fortune. Perhaps disappointment was licking him. Tommy had wanted with all the yearning and ardor of his whole heart to marry Irene. Life was just black despair now. He'd been unhappier than anyone knew over his aunt's death.

He said, dispiritedly: "I guess you're right."

"But you won't forget me, will you?" Irene asked him with a wistfulness that went no deeper than her words.

Tommy did not answer.

"Kiss me, will you, Tommy?" Irene coaxed.

Tommy obliged, somewhat fiercely. It was all he could do to keep from crying as he held her in his arms.

Irene was thinking: "Now I can go with Prentiss to the studio to-morrow night!"

CHAPTER XXVI

To the studio Irene went with Prentiss Gaylord, son of the big soap manufacturer, to meet the two radio celebrities of the hour. When first Prentiss asked her to go with him she had been doubtful about accepting. The hour they would need to start coincided with that in which she had promised to go for a ride with Tommy. But since Prentiss was showing increased fondness for her now and her engagement to Tommy was broken, she thought he could see that she had a right to go about with whomsoever she pleased. If he didn't . . . well, she was satisfied that Prentiss was seriously interested. Even if the romance came to nothing she had a good talking point if she wanted Tommy back. It was only fair for her to go about with other men and test her love for him, she would tell Tommy. At worst it could only be a matter of begging his forgiveness.

She was quite easy in her mind about Tommy even in regard to Prentiss's jealousy of him. Yes, Prentiss had been jealous the time he had called for Beryl and met Irene entertaining Tommy.

Tommy, she had explained when Prentiss asked about him, was a boy she'd known since childhood. He practically lived at their house. She expected Beryl would marry him some day. Oh, yes, Beryl was in love with him. Prentiss believed this because he felt so certain Beryl was in love with someone. Irene didn't believe Tommy had quite made up his mind about it yet—but he would. Beryl always got what she wanted.

Irene sighed with this remark. "She went with me to the studio for my voice test," she went on in a tone of gentle tolerance, "and came away with a contract."

She laughed. "It's a funny world, all right, isn't it? I've tried so hard—and for Beryl it all came so easily."

Of course Prentiss had felt sorry for her. Her acceptance, utterly without bitterness, of a situation that would have filled most girls with envy, was so pathetic that he had been impelled to do something nice for her. It was then he had invited her to meet the two radio celebrities whom everyone was clamoring to know.

One of these celebrities—both were men—was not at all impressed with Irene but Prentiss didn't like him anyway. The other fell for her with a boom. This naturally did her no harm in her campaign to win Prentiss.

All evening she was demure. The attention of the great comedian did not seem to mean a thing to her, and that pleased Prentiss. Of course the comedian was married but Prentiss couldn't know that Irene had thought of that.

When they were ready to leave he told Irene that he would drive his roadster to the garage where his father kept a closed car for his use when in New York, and if he could get a chauffeur to drive them out to Long Island he'd leave the roadster in the garage and take the other car.

Irene knew what that meant. When a man wants to give his undivided attention to a girl—and get her home at a respectable hour—he doesn't have time for driving in city traffic to reach a much-traveled country highway.

Prentiss had said something about supper at a club and though Irene had said she'd love to go she thought she'd better not. She could see he was eager to talk to her, and she was just as eager to hear what he had to say. Prentiss was glad she vetoed the supper club.

They found a driver for the Gaylord limousine. Mr. Gaylord preferred to travel long distances by train, and he was now in Oakdale, but he always took his chauffeur with him.

As Prentiss helped Irene into the car she thought of the night Beryl had been driven home in this limousine. Her sister had been in her glory that night.

Prentiss lost no time in making love to her. Irene's little flutter of pretense was completely submerged in his amorous embrace. He kissed her eagerly and declared he was going to marry her. Irene did not remind him that he had not asked her if she would be his wife. Prentiss forgot his Victorian attitude and made love in the twentieth century style. It wasn't any longer, "Would he dare?" It was "Do."

But Irene remembered. She wasn't quite ready to drop her pose of sweet simplicity. She insisted that Prentiss ask her mother before he demanded an answer from her.

It was a good start, she thought. She'd heard Beryl talk about life on a 50-50 basis, but for her part she'd rather have a man regard her as being of a more delicate species than himself and treat her as a superior. She'd even liked it when Prentiss had seemed a little in awe of her, as though he found himself in the presence of someone too fine for common words and everyday life.

* * *

Irene didn't want him to think he could change because they were going to be married. She still wanted to be, in his mind, remote from association with mundane thoughts. She liked her pedestal and was determined to remain perched upon it. It gave her distinct advantages. For instance, who would suspect an angel of seeking revenge? She was thinking of the influence she intended to bring against Beryl. And suppose Prentiss was such a silly that he'd expect her to act as though he were the only man in the world? As a matter of fact she cared a great deal about Tommy and would like to keep up a friendship with him. How much easier if Prentiss thought her too unworldly for subterfuge?

She wished, even as she sat beside him during that drive, that she liked Prentiss better than she did. Sometimes when Tommy had kissed her strange little delights had thrilled her. Prentiss left her cold. But of course she couldn't think of marrying Tommy if she could have Prentiss. That would be too ridiculous for words.

So Prentiss talked and Irene thought all the way to her home. She planned a lot of things on the way. Thank goodness Prentiss wanted to be married right away. It would save the questions of many surprised and speculative friends. Further to escape them she'd have to forego a church wedding, unless they went away for it, or simply invited no one at all. What a nuisance family friends were. They expected to share every event of your life.

Perhaps it would be best to engage a suite of rooms at a hotel—the Ritz or perhaps the new Waldorf—and have a quiet ceremony with just the family present. Would Prentiss's father come on for it? She was glad she wasn't going to have a mother-in-law. She supposed she'd be very important socially in Oakdale.

Frequently Prentiss interrupted her pleasant speculation with a renewal of his plea for an early wedding day. Invariably she chided him gently with a question of her own. "Prentiss, how can I promise that before you've even spoken to my parents?"

* * *

Once or twice Prentiss felt like saying, "Oh, hang your parents!" but feared Irene would misunderstand. He liked her filial attitude. "Good to your parents—good to your husband." Why wasn't that as good an axiom as the one about a son who is good to his mother being good to his wife?

Still he didn't like the idea of Irene's parents interfering with his plans. He was accustomed to having his own way. But he couldn't blame them, and told himself he owed a vote of thanks for having a daughter as sweet as Irene.

She wouldn't let him keep her long to say good-night, nor would she let him come in. Irene was afraid that Tommy might be hovering about the premises. He was such a fool at times! She would have to tell him that she was going to marry Prentiss but she didn't want Prentiss around when she did it.

Besides, she was in a fever of impatience to tell Beryl about it. She wouldn't wait until morning. All the injury she'd felt at having Beryl suddenly become the outstanding member of the family welled up afresh and she wanted to show her that she had captivated Prentiss.

"Just one more kiss," Prentiss pleaded. "I never knew that anything in the world could be as sweet as you, Irene," he told her.

She said, "Didn't you?" and there was a touch of absentmindedness in her tone. It was no novelty to Irene to thrill with her kisses. And just at the moment her anticipation of breaking her big news to Beryl was more engrossing than compliments.

She did not deny Prentiss the caress. She took it with shy acquiescence. Satisfied—or was it dissatisfied?—he let her go.

As she drew herself up from his arms she glanced out to the street and caught a glimpse of a familiar figure by the gate. It was Tommy!

Horoscope

WEDNESDAY, JULY 29

Malefic planetary aspects are prominent in the horoscope for to-day, according to astrology. It is a time to be on guard lest accidents or misfortunes interfere with plans.

In the morning hours merchants and manufacturers should be careful in making plans for the autumn trade, which is to bring many surprises.

This is not an auspicious away under which to start any new enterprise, especially the raising of money.

It is not a lucky day for those who seek employment. Both men and women who hold places of authority may be difficult to approach.

Under this rule of the stars arrogance and egotism may be prevalent among the persons who are fortunate in escaping the ills to which the majority are heirs.

The seers warn that those who enjoy a monopoly of blessings, whether they be those of health or wealth, must meet reverses, or at least changes, and for that reason they counsel kindliness.

Growth of greed and selfishness is attributed to sinister planetary influences over which the mind may dominate. Race consciousness that carries with it human sympathies and understanding is stressed as especially important at this time.

Ceremonies and pageants will be more popular and more numerous than at any time in recent history, it is forecast.

Mars in Scorpio has been read as presaging improvements in marine and airplane engines that will be of great importance.

Postoffice problems now will be much discussed in Washington, it is predicted, but better service will be assured and economies ignored, astrologers foretell.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of possible changes that are beneficial. Friends may be very helpful.

Children born on this day probably will be exceedingly gifted and remarkably successful. This sign rules many thinkers and artists.

Jean Baptiste Camille Corot, famous French landscape painter, was born on this day, 1796. Others who have claimed it as a birthday include Eastman Johnson, 1824, and John Newton Brown, 1803, noted Baptist divine.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily's Popcorn

(Copyright, 1931, by Howard R. Garis)

"Unkie Wig!" called Baby Bunty one day as she made a hop, skip and a jump close to the old rabbit gentleman, "Unkie Wig!"

"Yes, what is it, Baby Bunty?" asked Mr. Longears as he stopped twinkling his pink nose long enough to laugh at the little orphan rabbit who lived in his hollow stump bungalow.

"Do 'oo know what I fink 'oo better had do?" asked Bunty and right away Uncle Wiggily said:

"No more of that baby talk, Bunty my dear! Please stop it at once!"

"Oh, excuse me, I forgot, Unkie Wig," spoke the little orphan rabbit. You see she was allowed to say "Unkie Wig," and that was all the baby talk she could use. So whenever she tried to say more words in baby talk than just "Unkie Wig," why, the old rabbit gentleman had to stop her as he did a moment ago.

"But what is it you think I had better do?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"I think," answered Bunty, taking care to use no more baby talk, "that you had better make a popcorn stand at the seashore bench of the Duck Pond Ocean. Have a popcorn stand."

"That's a very good idea, Baby Bunty," said Uncle Wiggily, pinkling his twink nose again. "I'll do it right away. Hurray I'll have some fun and get an adventure out of it."

So Uncle Wiggily got ready to start the popcorn stand. You remember, I dare say, how a little while before, when it was a very hot day, Mr. Longears put a lot of salt in the Duck Pond. Then he had Mr. Whitewash, the Polar Bear gentleman, sozzle himself up and down in the water and this made big, salty waves, and as the shore was sandy, there Uncle Wiggily had a Duck Pond Ocean near his bungalow.

"But of course to be more like the regular seashore," said Uncle Wiggily, "there should be a popcorn stand. Baby Bunty is right."

It did not take long, with some boards and sticks he found, for Mr. Longears to make a sort of shed, or stand, where he would give away popcorn after he had made it into balls, or covered with sugar or with salt and butter.

What's that? You thought Uncle Wiggily would sell his popcorn? Oh, no! Nothing like that. The old rabbit gentleman had forty 'leven sixteen bunny children of his own, counting Baby Bunty the orphan. And then there were about fifty 'leven sixteen other animal boys and girls who loved Uncle Wiggily as much as his own children did. And he couldn't sell them popcorn.

"I'll just give it away," he said. He hopped to the store and bought some of the loose kernels of corn. Then he bought a sort of wire cage on a long handle. This was the popper. Next, in an old iron pot, Uncle Wiggily made a fire inside his little shed, near the salty Duck Pond Ocean.

"And when I shake the popper of corn over the hot fire, the kernels will burst, turn white like snow and there will be the popcorn," chuckled the rabbit gentleman.

It did not take him long to do this. Soon could be heard the slithering sound of the shaking kernels in the wire popper. Then came a noise like little guns shooting. The corn was popping. Then a most delicious smell filled the air and there came trooping up all the bunny boys and girls as well as the puppy cats, the pussy dogs, the ducks, squirrels, guinea pigs and other animal friends of Uncle Wiggily.

"Popcorn! Popcorn! Popcorn!" they cried. "I smell popcorn!"

"It will be ready for you soon!" said Uncle Wiggily with a laugh.

Over some of the popcorn he poured melted butter and sprinkled salt on it. The animal children ate it almost as fast as he made it. Then on some of the popcorn Uncle Wiggily poured melted molasses and sugar and rounded it into white balls just like the baseballs the boys play with. And just as he finished making the last of the popcorn balls, all of a sudden, along came slinking the Bob Cat.

"I smell popcorn!" howled the Bob Cat. "And I smell a rabbit to nibble, also! Oh, what a good smeller I am!"

"Well, take a smell of this!" cried Uncle Wiggily, bravely. With that he threw a hot popcorn ball straight at the Bob Cat. It hit him on the nose and stuck there, burning the Bad Chap as he deserved. But the hot popcorn ball didn't burn Uncle Wiggily for on his paws he worse gloves greased with butter.

"There! Do you smell that?" cried the rabbit gentleman.

"Yes, I do!" howled the Bob Cat. "Oh, I smell too much! Oh, how my nose burns!" and away he ran to the woods with the popcorn ball sticking on his nose. So he didn't get the bunny gentleman after all.

And if the alarm clock will please stop ringing its bell, pretending it is a telephone call for the gas stove, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's peanuts.

THE APPROPRIATIONS

In compliance with the request of the senate that the board give the amount of appropriations to each department, the governors instructed the president to transmit to the senate a copy of the departmental comparative summation in the budget for 1931-32.

VICTORIA FEES UNCHANGED

Under the affiliation arrangement between the University of British Columbia and Victoria College it was provided the fees would be the same in the two institutions. The governors have decided, however, that in view of the fact no financial emergency has arisen in connection with Victoria College, there will be no change this year in the college fees to parallel the increase being made in the fees at the University of British Columbia.

FIFTY BODIES IN PEACE MOVEMENT GATHER

Paris, July 28.—Fifty organizations for the promotion of peace were represented here yesterday at a meeting presided over by Viscount Cecil of Great Britain, to make arrangements for a great popular disarmament congress in Paris in November.

An executive committee, with French, British, United States, German, Polish, Swiss, Czech and Dutch members, was appointed.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

Letter Wife Who Took Her Husband's Irritability Over Business Worries Personally

DEAR MISS DIX—A little over a year ago I married. After about three weeks of happy married life my husband had the opportunity of buying large amount of stock in a very old-established firm in the city, but in order to do so he had to borrow heavily.

He borrowed the money we had hoped would bring us happiness. Everything I did was wrong and at the least provocation he would abuse me and use the most vile language, and I spent the most miserable year of my life. There was another woman in the case, but he swears that every time we were together we quarreled, so he stayed at the office in order to be away from me and worked ten and eleven hours a day. Three weeks ago I got a divorce. Now he has been to see me and wants me to come back. He says the reason he treated the way he did was because he was so worried with financial affairs. Do you think he has changed? I still love him, but I have schooled myself to forget him, and I don't want to risk my happiness again, although my impulse is to return to him. Please give me your honest opinion. MRS. X.

Answer—When you look back at the wreck of your marriage, don't you feel that you were just as much to blame as your husband was, and that if in the stress of an ordeal in your lives he showed himself somewhat of a brute, you proved yourself a poor sport?

Certainly nothing excuses his making you wretched and his abuse of you. It is not hard to picture how surprised and hurt a bride of three weeks in having her honeymoon so abruptly terminated and in having nagging fault-finding replace flatteries and cajoleries and knocks take the place of kisses.

But you could have saved the situation if you had a little patience, a little forbearance, a little discernment and a little sympathy for your husband. You knew that the chance of his life had come to him and that he had to stake all that he had and more upon it. You know the frightful anxiety under which has was laboring. You knew that he was overworked, overstrained, that every nerve was quivering and raw.

So you might have sensed that there was really nothing in what he did or said to you. You were just simply the escape valve for the irritability he had to keep bottled up in him all day and that he could not show to the outside world. If you had been big enough to realize this and had met petulance with gentleness, if you had laughed at his fault-finding and smoothed the edge of his temper on your good nature, if you had petted him and amused him and jollied him instead of arguing with him when he came home overwrought of an evening you could have saved this ugly break in your lives which you will never be able to quite bridge over. For always there will be between you the memory of divorce, the knowledge of a love that was not strong enough to endure stress and that may fail you again in the hour of need.

I am not justifying men in taking out on their wives all of their business worries, though many a man does it and many a woman has only to give one look at her husband's face as he comes in the door of an evening in order to know whether stocks are up or down and how things have gone at the office. And if they have gone ill, heaven help her, for she is due to hear that she is the poorest cook that ever put a pot on the stove and to get the mawling out that her husband would have given his boss or his best client or customer if he had dared.

But even in the face of such injustice a wife may well remember that it is her husband's nerves that are speaking, not his heart, and that if he is cross and unreasonable and grouchy and glum, it is nearly always because he is weary unto death with the struggle of modern life and that the reason he is overworked is because he is trying to give her and the children comforts and luxuries.

As to your question about going back to your husband, I should strongly advise it. He has had his lesson. Perhaps you have had yours. You still love each other and when you take up your life together again I hope you will be wiser and more patient and more forbearing and understanding with each other. DOROTHY DIX.

* * * * * *

DEAR MISS DIX—I am about to be married to a young man who loves me very much, as I do him, but the thing that holds us back is the question of children. We have discussed the topic over and over again, but to no advantage. I do not wish to have children, but my fiance is set on having a family. He says no home is complete without children and that it is the woman's place to have them. What do you think about this?

Answer—I agree with your fiance that no home is complete without children and that it is the woman's place to have them. In fact, nature seems to be of the same opinion, as she has arranged it that way, so evidently your husband can't pinch hit for you on the baby question.

If you are fully determined not to have any children the wise thing for you to do is to break off the match, because there will be no happiness for either you or your husband when you have divergent views on this subject. A great many men do not care for children and are glad to be relieved of the burden of the support of a houseful of youngsters and not to be bothered with their noises. They prefer a new sports car to a perambulator and had rather spend their money on themselves than on youngsters. If you marry this type of man the baby question will settle itself without animosity.

But if a man loves children and has the paternal instinct strongly developed, he will feel his marriage a failure if there are no babies, and he will soon cease to care for the woman who is too cowardly and too selfish to give him the youngsters that will put meaning in life for him.

But probably your own opinion on the subject will change when you marry and have children, for babies' hands work miracles in altering women's opinions on this subject. DOROTHY DIX.

The Breath of Life

Unless you are a fish or a tadpole or something like that, your lungs are as important to you as your heart. You can breathe under water by using your gills to take oxygen out of the water; but human beings need lungs to remain alive.

Deep breathing is a real aid to health

Air contains seven kinds of gases, but only two gases are present in large amounts—nitrogen and oxygen. There are four times as much nitrogen as oxygen in the air, but oxygen is the part of the air which keeps us alive. When aviators make trips high in the air, they take along oxygen and leave the nitrogen behind.

We draw in air, and it passes to tubes and air-sacs in our lungs. Blood coming close to the lungs takes out oxygen, and this oxygen is carried to all parts of the body. Our bodies are made up of billions of tiny cells which need oxygen in order to live.

In the blood stream are red disks, so small we could hardly see one of them without a microscope. We might compare these disks, or "corpuscles," to tiny checkers. If 12,000 of them were placed in a stack (the way we stack checkers) the pile would be barely an inch high!

The red disks carry oxygen to different parts of the body. A man who weighs 160 pounds has about 20,000,000,000,000 red disks in his blood stream.

We sometimes hear a person boast that he has "blue blood" in his veins. That is true—we all have blue blood in our veins, or at least "bluish" blood. In our arteries, the blood is rich red because it is well supplied with oxygen. In the veins the blood is "bluish" because most of the oxygen has been used up. Blood from the veins, however, looks red as soon as it strikes air.

In one minute we breathe about fifteen times, and each time we draw in about thirty cubic inches of air. Of course that is just an average. The amount differs with different persons. It is well for us to take deep breaths, so our lungs will receive plenty of oxygen to send around.

One way to breathe deeply is to stand before an open window and draw in as much air as we can. You might do this ten times each morning and ten times each night.

Exercise leads people to breathe deeply. That is one reason why we should have a reasonable amount of exercise in the open air.

Cosmopolitan List Aboard Orient Ship

President Cleveland Brings Business Men and Missionaries, Teachers and Students and Others in Varied Walks of Life on Arrival Here This Morning From Orient

There was a cosmopolitan list of passengers aboard the liner President Cleveland when she docked here this morning from the Far East. Three cabin passengers and a party of Chinese steerage passengers left the ship here en route to Vancouver. The Seattle list showed missionaries, school teachers and students returning from vacation jaunts in the lands on the other side of the Pacific; business men of North America and the Orient, and people on leisurely tours around the world. There were forty passengers in the first cabin.

The cabin passengers disembarking from the President Cleveland at this port were C. S. Richards, Mrs. Richards and Miss Rosemond Raikes. Mr. Richards is managing director of the Metropolitan Victor Electric Company of London, en route to his home after a tour around the world on business and pleasure. ALASKA TRADE KEEPS BRISK

Canadian Steamers From Vancouver Having Busy Season

Dorothy Had Good List Yesterday

The tourist trade to Alaska is being well maintained and every sailing from Vancouver for the north is taking out large lists of passengers from all parts of Canada and the United States. Tourists from the eastern part of the continent and California lead in the numbers visiting Alaska and the Yukon.

A large party of eastern people arrived in Vancouver Sunday morning and sailed yesterday evening on the Canadian National steamer Prince George for the north. After visiting Alaska this party will leave the steamer at Prince Rupert and will go by train through the Rockies, stopping off at Jasper Park for a short visit. Most of the travelers are from Chicago and adjoining cities.

A large party will sail from Vancouver to-morrow evening aboard the C.P.R. steamer Princess Louise for the north, while the C.N.R steamer Prince Henry, sailing from Vancouver Thursday evening, will also have a large number of round-trip tourists.

The Alaska ships operating out of Seattle to the north during the summer months are also taking large lists of passengers. The Dorothy Alexander was here for three hours yesterday afternoon with more than 200 passengers aboard, several of whom arrived in Seattle yesterday morning from California aboard the liner H. F. Alexander. Among the prominent passengers here aboard the Dorothy yesterday were Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Thompson of San Francisco and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Hurst, also of the Golden Gate city. Mr. Thompson is assistant to Herbert Fleishacker, San Francisco financier, and Mr. Hurst is assistant freight agent for the Matson Steamship Line.

Ss. President Cleveland Brings Valuable Cargo for Trans-shipment at This Port; Captain Reports Foggy Trip Across the Ocean From Yokohama

Raw silk valued at approximately $1,120,000 was on the Rithet piers to-day awaiting the arrival here this evening at 9 o'clock of the liner H. F. Alexander from Seattle, on which it will be loaded for San Francisco, where it will be put aboard the Dollar liner President Jackson for the trip through the Panama Canal to New York for distribution to eastern United States silk mills. The cargo arrived here this morning from the Orient aboard the American Mail liner President Cleveland, which docked at 9 o'clock from ports in the Philippine Islands, China and Japan.

FIVE HUNDRED TONS

There was a total of 500 tons of cargo discharged at Victoria, while the Cleveland was in port. The silk cargo was included in this, and amounted to 1,600 bales. A bale of raw silk is now valued at approximately $700. Besides the silk cargo a large amount of general, including tobacco, rice, tea, wicker furniture and hemp goods was left here for trans-shipment south on the H. F. Alexander.

There were nearly 2,000 tons of general cargo aboard for Seattle including another valuable parcel of silk for train shipment east. The liner also brought in a large amount of mail, the Canadian consignment being put off here, as well as twenty bags for the seaplane to Seattle. It was hoped to clear the liner for Seattle at 1 o'clock, but dock workers thought it would be later when she got away because of the large cargo.

FOGGY VOYAGE

Capt. George Yardley, master of the big liner, said he had experienced a good voyage across the north Pacific from Yokohama, which port was left eleven days ago. For seven days, however, the President Cleveland pushed her away through dense banks of fog. The hoarse fog horn on the ship's funnel roared out every few minutes for twenty-four hours a day. The speed of the ship, however, was not cut down and she arrived here on schedule time. There was no rough weather, Capt. Yardley said, and the sea was as smooth as the proverbial mill pond most of the way across.

PILOTS' LOOKOUT

President Cleveland, docked Victoria from Orient ports, 9 a.m.; proceeded to Seattle, 1 p.m.

San Julian, passed Victoria, bound Seattle from Port Alberni, 11.45 a.m.

H. F. Alexander, to sail from Seattle, 5 p.m.; due Victoria 9 p.m.; to sail for San Francisco and Los Angeles 11 p.m.

MANY EXCURSIONS BOOKED THIS WEEK

The C.P.R. steamer Princess Patricia will make a special excursion from Victoria to Port Angeles to-morrow under the auspices of the local Rotary Club. The "Pat" will leave the Belleville Street docks at 1.30 o'clock and will leave Port Angeles on the return trip at 8 o'clock in the evening.

To-day the Puget Sound Navigation Company's ferry steamer Indianapolis was in from Seattle with a large party of excursionists. She arrived at 1.30 o'clock and is timed to leave on the return trip at 6 o'clock. She will be here again on Thursday with a similar excursion party.

On Friday the Indianapolis will come here from Tacoma with a special party. She will arrive at 2.15 o'clock and will leave on the return trip at 5.30 o'clock.

The excursion which the Princess Patricia carried from Vancouver to Brentwood last Saturday proved so popular with Vancouver people that a similar trip will be held next Saturday. About two hours are given at Tod Inlet and the passengers are allowed to disembark and wander through the Butchart Gardens.
